Palm Desert's D.C.A. Head Denies Charges

PALM DESERT — Charges of "misinformation and distortion of facts" leveled against the Desert Community Association were denied here today by DCA President Walter B. Stearns.

"We are charged, in a widely circulated letter, with having only a vague knowledge of the functions of a library, and with being obstructionists . . . the letter inquires as to what the Desert Community Association is and who are its members.

"The Desert Community Association has no secrets and it is proud of its membership of more than 600 registered voters of Palm Desert as well as its distinguished officers.

Ridiculous

"The records of our directors need no defense and it is ridiculous to suggest that they are vague and uninformed."

Stearns, a retired vice president of Metropolitan Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, listed the following as active officers of the DCA:

Retired Army Colonel George L. Townsend; John J. Moran, retired Du Pont Company executive; H.O. Davis, former editor and Hearst executive, as well as a top executive in the staging of the 1932 Olympic Games in Los Angeles; Dr. George F. Munns, former head of the Chicago Pediatrics Society; Stanley Sayles, currently a director of the Palm Desert Community Services District; Werner Gubitz, former chief style designer for Packard Motor Company.

They're Tops

Also on the list are retired industrialist Stephen Chase IV; Joel Henson, former diplomatic aide and contractor Bernard Rogers.

"All of these people," said Stearns have substantial holdings in Palm Desert and surrounding desert areas. All of them have been rated at the top of their chosen fields.

"Their residence in this community ranges from 8 to 20 years. They are well aware of growth problems and informed fully on tax matters. There is no one in this association who is not for progress, but they seek progress on a basis which the community can afford.

Stearns further remarked that the Association is not opposed to added library facilities here. He said that his group has called attention of the Palm Desert Library Board to the fact that it now holds $6,000 in donated funds toward construction of a library.

Cost Estimated

"Our Association has determined — by conservative estimates — that a suitable building can be constructed for about $12,000. We have offered to raise the remaining $6,000 by public subscription but have been met with the reply that nothing will suffice except the building which the current library group wants."

"Also," continued Stearns, "this identical library proposal was offered two and one half years ago."

British Beauty Queen Accused of Stabbing Leading Film Producer

LONDON (UPI)—A movie actress and former beauty queen was charged today with knifing one of Britain's leading film producers, Paul Rotha, in the stomach. He was in fair condition.

The actress, Constance Mary Smith, 32, a petite brunette beauty who played in "The Mudlark" and "Kind Hearts and Coronets," slashed her wrists after the early morning knifing, police said.

Rotha, 50, a talented documentary producer who at one time headed the British Broadcasting Corporation's television documentary section, was reported out of danger at S.T. Bartholomew's Hospital.

Police said Rotha returned to his apartment shortly before midnight from Germany, where he had completed "The Lives of Adolf Hitler." A half-hour later, they said, a woman telephoned from the apartment for police and an ambulance, saying, "there's been an accident."

Eichmann Must Hang Until Dead

Is Icily Calm As Israeli Court Delivers Sentence

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)

—Three Israeli judges told an icily calm Adolf Eichmann today that he must "hang by the neck until he is dead," for masterminding the Nazi slaughter of six million Jews during World War II.

It took only 12 minutes for the judges to condemn Eichmann but because of appeals it may be four months before it is finally decided whether he will die at the end of a hangman's rope.

The 55-year-old Eichmann, standing stiffly erect in his bullet-proof glass box, did not even blink as Judge Moshe Landau pronounced the words he had fully expected to hear.

Only an occasional twitch of the right side of the mouth betrayed the fact that he was anything but a statue. He appeared drained of emotion by the four months of the trial and the four months of waiting while the three judges had considered the verdict.

Plans Appeal

Defense attorney Robert Servatius immediately announced he would file an appeal within 10 days to the Supreme Court.

His assistant, Dieter Wechtenbruch, told United Press International the appeal would challenge the competence of the court to try Eichmann because the trial was based on "retroactive law applying to a time at which the state making the law did not exist."

Besides the appeal to the Supreme Court, Eichmann also could appeal for mercy to the president of Israel, and the parliament (Knesset) must pass a special law enabling the execution. Israel law at present does not provide for carrying out a death penalty.

The judges filed in 19 minutes later and toward the end of the waiting period Eichmann started rubbing the thumbs of his folded hands. Then he composed himself.

Earlier this week the court had explained its reasons for finding Eichmann guilty of all 15 counts on an indictment charging him with crimes against humanity, crimes against the Jewish people, a war crime and membership in illegal organizations.

Perhaps She Was Frightened By a Sandwich

Arthur "Dagwood Bumstead" Lake, a comic strip personification, has been stripped — of a dog. And it's not funny.

Lake, of Eldorado Country Club, is today looking for a small white Chihuahua with light brown head and ears that disappeared from the vicinity of the club Wednesday night. The dog, a female answering to the name of Nina, is a cherished family pet. Locating her will be worth $100 to the finder, Bumstead — uh, Lake said.

Eager to find the pet, Lake turned to the best medium possible for aid, a Desert Sun classified.

Rotha's present wife was understood to be at another hospital for a reason not connected with the knifing.

Miss Smith is married to Italian photographer Aldo Crollenzana. Her first marriage, to film writer and actor Bryan Forbes, was dissolved in 1953.

A native of Limerick, Ireland, she appeared in court this morning fidgeting nervously. No wound was visible.

She will be jailed until a further hearing next Thursday.

Police said Rotha returned to his apartment shortly before midnight from Germany, where he had completed "The Lives of Adolf Hitler." A half-hour later, they said, a woman telephoned from the apartment for police and an ambulance, saying, "there's been an accident."

U.N. FORCES SMASHING IN ALL-OUT OFFENSIVE

Jets, Mortars, Armor Strike Heart of City

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations forces backed by jet planes, mortars and armor smashed close to the heart of Elisabethville today in an all-out offensive against the forces of Katanga.

Details were generally scarce, but U.N. jets blasted Katangese installations in the southern part of the city, while U.N. infantry and armored cars crunched forward in the north and northwest sectors.

The U.N. attack seemed to be aimed at winning key points in this capital of secessionist Katanga Province before there is any agreement to a cease-fire or peace talks.

(A spokesman at U.N. Headquarters in New York confirmed that a full offensive against Katangese forces was launched at 10 o'clock Thursday night. The spokesman said the first phase of the operation was successful and the U.N. force suffered "no casualties.")

A U.N. spokesman here was reported to have said there were no plans for a major military operation against the city.

Appeals for Settlement

Katanga President Moise Tshombe appealed to world leaders to help end the U.N. attacks against his forces. He offered to meet with Central Government Premier Cyrille Adoula in an effort to reach a peaceful solution.

A U.N. Canberra jet made five passes firing its cannons at Camp Tshombe, a Katanga gendarmerie post, about a mile outside the city limits. Newsmen watched from a vantage point near a downtown hotel as the plane swooped down on the camp.

The advance appeared to have been halted by mid-afternoon, but observers expected it to be resumed. Katangese forces said they had beaten back a U.N. general offensive.

(In Washington, President Kennedy appointed U.S. Ambassador to the Congo Edmund Gullion as his representative in an effort to arrange negotiations between Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Central Government Premier Cyrille Adoula that might lead to a cease-fire. The President acted after receiving a surprise cable from Tshombe, asking Kennedy to "intervene as a Christian gentleman" to halt the fighting. But the United States did not appear ready to call for a cease-fire until the United Nations achieves its "minimum military objectives" in Katanga.)

Officials said the United Nations had not fully achieved its "minimum military objectives" of securing key positions needed for its own protection. They felt it unwise to halt the U.N. military operation at the peak of its momentum for the mere prospect of negotiations which might never begin.

New Zoning Urged For Palm Springs Planners

The Palm Springs City Planning Commission launched into a proposed "O" zone yesterday, as three city council members pondered the problem of a holding new zone for this city.

The proposals came in an informal discussion between Mayor Frank Bogert, Councilmen Harry Paisley and Earle C. Strebe, and members of the planning commission at lunch in the Riviera Hotel Thursday.

Frank Miller, chairman of the planning commission, told Bogert that the planners, now working on new zoning ordinances and maps for the city, had proposed an "O" zone for holding purposes. The quasi-holding zone now is the guest-ranch zoning, which also carries, historically, certain use restrictions.

Mayor Bogert told the luncheon that he hoped the city could give zoning to aid growth of low density hotels. The use of zones with restrictions of 40 units per five acres would help get away from "barracks-like hotels which look like prison camps," he said.

Robson Chambers, a commission member, explained to the councilmen that use of the proposed O zone instead of an R-1a would permit maintenance of five acre or other large parcels. Zoning in the single family residence would push undeveloped land into small parcels, he said.

Discussions included a new guest ranch zoning, with restrictions. Commission members told the councilmen that planning had called for elimination of guest ranch zones, but a suitable replacement — possibly the O zone — had not been defined. If guest ranch zoning continues, it would include single-story construction restrictions, with a limit of 40 units per five acres. A conditional use permit would be required for construction.

President Promises More Aid for South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy, responding to an urgent new plea from President Ngo Dinh Diem, today promised more U.S. help to fight off growing Communist guerrilla attacks in South Viet Nam.

"I have already given the orders to get these programs under way," Kennedy told Diem in an exchange of messages made public by the White House. Government sources said the increased aid would not include U.S. combat troops.

These sources said Kennedy would step up training of South Vietnamese forces and shipments of equipment. They said a major effort also would be made to assure that the South Viet Nam troops make the most effective use of American help.

In his undated message to Kennedy, Diem said his embattled Southeast Asian nation was stretched to the utmost and could not withstand mounting Communist attacks with its current resources.

Asks More Aid
"We must have further assistance from the United States if we are to win the war now being waged against us," Diem told Kennedy.

Diem said the Communists had increased their attacks to a "high ferocity" in recent months, taking a toll of more than 2,000 casualties in October alone.

The Viet Nam president said a disastrous flood, exploited by the Reds, added to the problem.

"In short, the Vietnamese nation now faces what is perhaps the gravest crisis in its long history," he said.

Kennedy replied that the United States was "deeply disturbed" by the Communist attacks on South Viet Nam. He said the raids were supported and directed from Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

Trustees Get Peek at Colors Of New College

Architects John Porter Clark and Robson Chambers showed samples of the proposed materials and colors to the Trustees at their meeting Thursday night. Outside colors will be seen later, the architects reported, because they were delayed in the mails.

From the early indications, floors in the new buildings will be grey. Walls will be of beige tones, with accents of Venetian red and a Columbia blue—which was explained as "sort of a blue-grey."

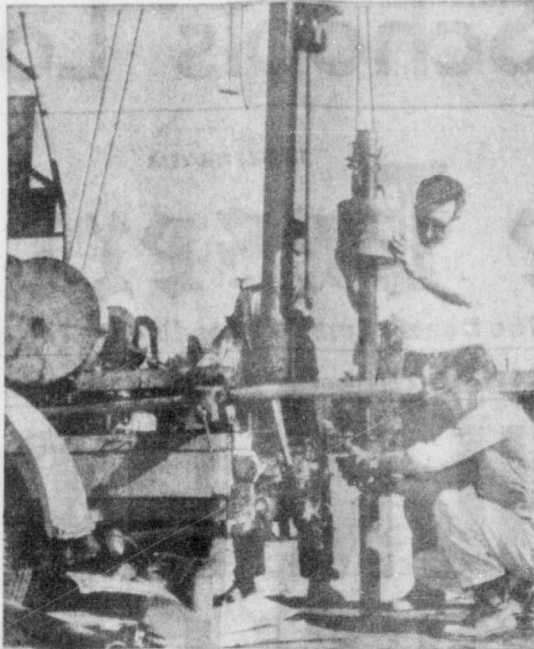

The walls in the classrooms will have a vinyl covering, with cooler tones in the south rooms and warm ones in the northern, the architects reported. Wood in the buildings will be in a natural finish. Most blackboards will be of a light green chalkboard, with some brown.

Chief Electric Firms Will Pool Resources

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California's chief electric utilities were completing plans today for a statewide pooling of generating resources.

The operation, called the California Power Pool Agreement, will provide for mutual aid during emergencies and eventually permit various economies in operation.

First link in the operation will tie together generating and transmission facilities of Southern California Edison Co., San Diego Gas and Electric Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co., and California Electric Power Co. Southern California Edison President Jack Horton said the power pool would eliminate costly duplication of transmission facilities and would ease the problem of supplying power to the Feather River State Water project.

Horton said if one or more member utilities temporarily lost some of their power producing capabilities, neighboring members of the pool could deliver the necessary electricity through the power line interties.

Plans Press Session
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy plans to hold a news conference next Wednesday. No time has been fixed for the conference.

Macmillan Wins Big Vote on Katanga Stand

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan won an overwhelming vote of confidence Thursday night on his attempts to get a cease-fire in Katanga Province.

He said that Britain and the United States are basically in accord on Congo policy.

As President Kennedy took steps in Washington to secure peace in the Congo, the House of Commons passed a motion backing the government's position on a cease-fire in Katanga without a dissenting vote.

Earlier, a Labor amendment to a motion accusing the government of "equivocal" policies on Katanga and bringing the nation into international "disrepute" was beaten by a vote of 320-226, with 11 abstentions.

Laborites then did not oppose the confidence motion which called for an immediate cease-fire and the peaceful unification of the Congo.

The headline of this advertisement was written almost sixty years ago.

It is the motto of the men who build Cadillac cars—and it has served as proud legend and stern taskmaster for three generations of Cadillac craftsmen.

We selected it to help tell our story today, because we think it still summarizes perfectly the quality and the care—the pride and the precision—that go into the making of every Cadillac motor car.

There is no really adequate way to describe the crafting of a Cadillac. But perhaps this brief recitation of facts might be helpful.

1. The average Cadillac craftsman has more than ten years of experience on the job.

2. One out of every seven people involved in the building of the car is an inspector.

3. Cadillacs are built in only one place—and they are built by men who build nothing else.

4. The car is crafted to unbelievably fine tolerances. Some engine parts, for example, must be accurate to within one ten-thousandth of an inch.

5. Every model undergoes more than 1400 different checks in the course of its assembly.

The list is longer, of course. But however lengthy, it could never be more impressive than the result.

See and drive the 1962 Cadillac soon. We know you'll understand why it has been so widely acclaimed as the Standard of the World.

Anyone Want a Grape Crop? See College of the Desert

PALM DESERT — Anyone want a grape crop? College of the Desert still has one, which it doesn't know what to do with, after deadline for bids on the current crop passed yesterday with no takers.

However, the Coachella Valley Junior College trustees did pretty well with the date crop which they inherited when they took control of land for the 160-acre campus being constructed here.

Winning bid went to Laffin and Laffin of Thermal on a call of .0651 cents per pound. This is just about double last year's crop at a little over three cents per pound. Total sale last year amounted to around $6,000.

Meanwhile, there's still the grape problem. Trustee William Cook thinks they all should be taken out because "this isn't a grape area, anyway."

College President Roy McCall, however, suggested at least some be left in as experimental garden for the future agriculture department. He reported he expected an ag man on the faculty, at least in an advisory capacity, in a few months.

Trustees Ray Rummolds and Don Mitchell were named to a committee to study the problem of what to do with the rest of the acreage. They are hopeful of solving the problem before time for January pruning.

David Roth In Honors By Israeli

David Roth, long a resident and business man in Palm Springs, has been named for honors from the Israeli government.

Roth, who served with the British army as an officer during World War I, served with the Israeli forces during 1957-58 in Palestine.

The consul general of Israel will make presentation of the Israeli Victory Medal during a dinner Jan. 7 at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

The honor will be but another of many Roth has received for service during conflict. The presentation will be made during a program of the Hagdud Haivri League. Roth, former operator of a prominent local haberdashery, said he now is planning a new home in Palm Springs.

Democrats Set Meet Saturday In 1,000 Palms

THOUSAND PALMS — Ralph Seward, claim supervisor of the Los Angeles Bureau of Social Security, will speak on "Your Problems with Social Security," at Thousand Palms Community Church, Saturday, at 7:30 p.m.

Seward will also present two short films: "Twenty-five Years of Social Security," and "Social Security — the Reasons Why," which deal with coverage, disability, and retirement issues. Following this presentation he will conduct a question-and-answer period.

The meeting is sponsored by Thousand Palms Democratic Club as a Community Service. It is non-partisan. The public is invited.

Seward, recently promoted to manager of the Bureau of Social Security for the State of Alaska, has been associated with the bureau for seven years. He has worked throughout Nevada, Arizona, and California.

Harland Mangold, president of the Democratic Club, and his committee are busy arranging the setting for this meeting for the comfort of all. Flares on Ramon Road east from Thousand Palms Village will indicate the way to the church on Sierra del Sol.

GREEN PASTURES

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A greater portion of the Texas land surface is devoted to pasture for cattle than any other single purpose, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says.

Texas cattle inhabit more than 100 million acres, some 65 per cent of the entire state.

Hot Springs Santa to Ride Red Sports Car

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — Santa Claus is coming to town — in a red sports car.

He can't make it to this desert resort in a sleigh, a spokesman for the sponsoring Parent-Teachers Association explained.

The genial whiskered gentleman, loved by youngsters, adults and merchants for a couple hundred years, will dispense Christmas goodies to community youngsters at 6 p.m. next Wednesday under the community Christmas tree. The tree is at the intersection of Pierson Boulevard and Palm Boulevard.

SECURITY-FIRST National Bank of Palm Springs—the Ramon Road branch—received an honor this week. It was an award from the U.S. Treasury Department in appreciation of patriotic service in the sale of savings bonds. The award was presented by Leo H. Provost, of the Treasury Department, and was accepted by Dorothy Lowden of the bank. Sales of bonds at the branch for the year 1961 exceeded $85,000.

Black Belt Buckles All He Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Army general says he ordered all military belt buckles to be colored black when no one else wanted them that way because he doesn't think he ought to have to make such decisions.

Lt. Gen. Andrew T. McNamara, who as director of the new Defense Supply Agency is engaged in taking over an inventory worth $3.2 billion revealed the problem Friday.

"The Air Force wanted a silver buckle, stamped; the Navy wanted a rust-colored buckle, cast; and the Marines wanted some kind of an open-face design which I suspect they use for opening bottles," McNamara told a news conference.

"First I had to decide on the stamped buckle, because it cost only 12 cents compared to 29 cents for the cast variety, and then I decided on a uniform, plain design."

"My aide was about to leave when I reached another decision. 'And make them all black,'" I said.

"But general," the aide said, "no one has asked for a black buckle."

"Who asked you?" I said. "And tell them if they don't want that s.o.b. up there making this kind of decision they should make the decisions themselves."

Since then, McNamara said, several decisions regarding military dress have been made at a local level by the services. This, he said, is the way it ought to be.

"MAYOR" UNCLE SAM
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Carroll Kearns, R-Pa., has charged that a proposal to set up a federal urban affairs department would result in the federal government becoming "mayor" of all of the nation's cities.

"I for one, am not ready to write off our state and local governments," Kearns said in a newsletter to constituents.

She Remembers Willy Boy

Thelma DeWitt Now Hi-Desert Cafe Waitress

By ED BARNUM

Thelma DeWitt is a gentle, white haired lady, known to many of her customers as "Mom." She is the night waitress in an all night diner on the edge of the community of Twentynine Palms.

Like many who work in a "Service" field, Thelma is quite, well liked and unassuming. People have forgotten that she, as a youngster, had an active role in one of the most famous murder-man hunt episodes in Southern California history. The Willy Boy story.

Played With Victim

In the early 1900's Thelma, along with her two brothers and sister, would travel from Banning to her Grandfather's ranch in what is now Morongo, to spend their summer vacations. The Piute Tribe that summered in Twentynine Palms and wintered in Banning stayed at her grandfather's ranch occasionally.

Murder

In 1908, Isoleta was kidnapped in Twentynine Palms by a Piute Indian named Willy Boy. Mike Boniface, the chief, trailed the pair a few miles into Fortynine Palms canyon and caught them. Mike warned the Piute to keep away from the girl or else.

A year later, on Sept. 27, 1909, Willy Boy murdered Mike Boniface on the Gilman Ranch near Banning and escaped with the girl, Isoleta.

At that time, Thelma's father, Charles Reche, was a deputy sheriff for San Bernardino County and the supervisor of the Desert Queen mine, located in what is now Joshua Tree National Monument.

Shoots Girl

When Willy Boy and his captive crossed the Big Morongo, the San Bernardino County posse was to join the search. The Indian headed north and east, along the rough granite hills. When the young 15-year-old Indian girl started to lag, Willy Boy shot her and continued his flight deeper into the Hi-Desert.

Running in a high circle, Willy Boy tried to reach Twentynine Palms where he had rifles and ammunition hidden. The posse, led by Reche, were amazed at the Indian's endurance. He had covered some 35-miles in the incredible time of four and one-half hours, on foot.

Hides Nearby

The posse abandoned the trail at dusk and rode to a nearby water hole. Unknown to them, Willy Boy was only 40 feet away, resting at the same water hole.

Again, Thelma remembers the Willy Boy story. "The next day, the Indian was cornered and the only person wounded in the fight was my father."

The posse split, one group after the Indian, who shot himself rather than be captured, the other carrying Reche to the Palm Springs Junction by wagon where he was taken by railroad to San Bernardino and more than five months of hospitalization.

Thelma remembers that a Dr. Mills, a British Army Surgeon treated her father. She said that he kept the wound open for several months, cleaning bone splinters out of the flesh.

Charles Reche died in Banning Dec. 6, 1957, at the age of 87. Because of the wound, Reche was unable to do heavy work. He spent the remainder of his life, working as a night watchman.

"Mom" DeWitt returned to the desert. She lived in Indio from 1928 until 1944 and in Banning until she moved to the Hi-Desert.

Today she lives in Indian Cove,

BEHIND HER COUNTER, Thelma DeWitt is known as "Mom" to many of her customers at the all night diner in Twentynine Palms. (Desert Sun Photo)

DESERT BRAEMAR

Effervescent Torrence Is An Early Window Tapper

Early riser, effervescent 'Stell Torrence, our neighbor, taps on our window at 6:15 a.m.—think of it—to show us of all things in Palm Springs — a handkerchief from the drying yard, frozen stiff as a board, a rare sight in the desert but not unusual in Estell's Longview, Wash., at this time of year.

Incidentally early risers are rewarded these mornings by glorious sun rises. The past few days clouds in the sky enhance the vivid yellow, orange and pink tinting. Why not risk one eye along about 6:30 a.m.?

Helpful household hint: a teaspoonful of maple syrup into the center pocket of a prepared Coacella grapefruit enlivens the taste buds. A little later when our desert grapefruit ripens, the added sweet is unnecessary.

Lyle and Mrs. Cooper arrived in Braemar from Hollister to occupy their "Cow Hollow" apartment. Just in time to help inaugurate the new garden room lounge ("Pool Room" as it is laughingly called because of its proximity to the pool). Mrs. Cooper stopped over a week at Loma Lind Hospital for a check-up. Lyle is one of the original charter members of Indian Wells Golf Club — one of these every day golfers. Golf gamblers beware!

Mrs. John Thornmeyer's sister, Mrs. Solvig Larson of Milwaukee, Wis., is presently visiting at the Thornmeyer apartment.

Millie Nicholson leaves Dec. 13 for a Christmas trip to be spent with relatives in San Antonio, Tex.

Tuesday Mrs. J. H. Galbraith (Ruth) left for a three - months trip to Florida. She will be joined by a sister from Minneapolis, Minn., to celebrate the Holidays there with relatives, and plans to a community outside of Twentynine Palms. He same area that Willy Boy ran his famous footrace against her father's posse. History in Southern California is still young enough to have people still alive that made that history.

spend some time in New York before returning to the desert. Mrs. Galbraith is a five-year resident, being the widow of John H. Galbraith, first president of Braemar.

Roger and Polly Neal of Yakima, Wash., arrived Wednesday to occupy Mrs. Galbraith's apartment during her absence. The Neals motored south spending Thanksgiving with their son and family in Riverside, also spent a few days in LaJolla golfing and sight-seeing. Mrs. Neal is an investment broker.

Sale of Braemar apartments continue. This week added two making a total of seven in the past few weeks. The new residents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Heiner of Shaker Heights, Ohio, who purchased the A. R. Atkinson apartment. Last year they rented the same apartment for the season and discovered they liked the desert. They have made extensive patio improvements.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hartwick of Los Angeles are the new owners of the J. Norman Phillips apartment, the latter having purchased the Braemar apartment owned by the Bernards which they have enlarged and improved. Christmas decorations are appearing. In the balcony, streamers of gay colored lights at the Stax Graves apartment brighten Circle Serene and the Christmas Tree Circle with the native Christmas evergreen aglow every evening — a bright spot in the entrance area. Various floor apartments are showing up each night and balcony light arrangements add to the festive scene.

Lounge and Recreation Room Opened

One of the brightest spots in the five-year existence of Desert Braemar took place Saturday night when the popular 100-unit desert garden co-operative opened its new lounge and recreation room adjoining the pool with a brilliant cocktail party.

More than three months have been spent in the construction and furnishing the garden room with its glassed in walls on two sides opening views to the south of Circle Serene and to the north of Christmas Tree Circle which at this season is lighted nightly.

The room is done in melon gold and-turquoise linen and custom with natural color linen shades. The sofas and lounge chairs and natural linen draperies set off the fixtures which include card groupings of light seal metal with turquoise melon and gold foam chairs. The buffet serving bar is of walnut with formica top. Complete cooking facilities are available. All in all the Garden Room takes on the desert charm.

Aside from the committee responsible for the completion and for the party consisting of Clarence Conrad, chairman, and members Betty Park, Helen Walker, Millie Nicholson and Dorothy Page, who welcomed the members officially for the first viewing of the completed facility. Also present were board of directors, Harold Parks, Clarence Conrad, Norman Phillips and the president and manager Harold D. Arnold.

The glass walls and doors were tastily adorned with white Holiday designs the handwork of Isabelle Wallace and Irma Anderson. Well over 100 members and guests praised to the committee, pronouncing the party and the new club room a very worthwhile accomplishment.

Chapman Tells Sales Total At New Office

Joyce Chapman has announced that her real estate office totaled more than $100,000 in sales during her first month of business.

Among the sales was a large acreage east of Palm Springs which the new owners plan to develop into a subdivision. Also handled were two parcels of income property near North Palm Canyon on which deluxe apartments are planned.

Plan to Marry

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —TV actor Doug McClure, 26, and actress Barbara Luna, 23, took out a marriage license here Tuesday and announced plans to marry Sunday at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Pacific Palisades. McClure stars in the "Checkmate" television series.

Theresa Press (center) of Palm Springs, regional vice president-elect of the California Real Estate Association, is shown with 1962 president-elect Charles H. Brown (left) of Pasadena, and 1961 president Kenneth H. Smitten (right) of San Francisco, attended an orientation session at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena, where the association's 1962 activities were planned. Mrs. Press will assume office as regional vice president of the association at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Biltmore Bowl of the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles on Saturday, Jan. 13.

GARDENING IN THE DESERT

Torch Lily Is Great for Tall Garden-Edge Color

If you have a high wall that will provide long, slender stalks, with a leaf against prevailing winds why not plant some Kniphofias. Known in differing local as red-hot poker, torch lily and flame flower it grows to a height which sometimes exceeds six feet. Do not plant them in over rich soil. The flaming red and yellow tubular flowers are responsible for the different names which the plant is familiarly known by, a fact which is readily understood when you glance at their glooms. As soon as these blooms fade the stalks should be cut down.

If your knowledge of bougainvillea is limited to the red species that blossoms so profusely in Southern California, why not study the newer Sunset Bougainvillea. Either alone or as a companion to the Barbara Karst it thrives equally well in full sunshine as in partial shade. It has a yellow bloom of the same abundance as its sister. Sturdy growths of both these species — matured to a height of five feet — may be obtained in your local nursery.

Natal Plum Fills Well
A favorite locally, Carissa, with its white, delicately fragrant, four-petaled blossoms, grows rapidly. The Natal Plum, as it is known more familiarly, is an excellent fill-in for a wire or wooden fence. Its wax-like, dark green leaves and deep red berries form an excellent background for its white blossoms. The berries are edible but have an acid taste.

In transplanting from containers to your own prepared beds care must be taken to the end that the soil in which the plant has been raised is as little disturbed as possible.

Young trees or shrubs whose roots are balled in burlap present little difficulty. Simply cut the retaining cord after you have placed the ball in place. The burlap will rot and present no impediment to the roots spreading.

However, metal containers take a long time to rot so have your nurseryman snip the sides with a special root which makes your transplanting operation easier. Check that this is done before leaving and finally, do not plant any part of the metal container.

Climbers Abound
There is no paucity in the variety of climbing vines that have proved their ability to withstand the cooler winter nights and the hot mid-day sun in our desert.

You may be a worshipper of the enormous buds and yellow, open funnels that give the Cup 'o Gold its name, or the beauties of the scarlet trumpet vine, the primrose jasmine, or the star jasmine that thrives best in a slight shade. In fact there are so many satisfactory and differing varieties available here that the confusion makes one pause, look across the arid desert then marvel at man's persistence and nature's benevolent cooperation.

In the past the Arizona and the Italian cypress has been used exclusively in our gardens, however, your nurseryman will show you a Cypress lawsoniana that was developed in Oregon. Actually its conical foliage is of a slightly more pleasing green than that of the other two cypresses.—T.G.M.

Date Festival Publicity Set

RIVERSIDE — Use of the steps of the county courthouse in Riverside for a publicity act for the 1962 Riverside County Fair and National Date Festival to be held in Indio in February was approved by the board of supervisors.

The date for the courthouse steps event is Jan. 13.

To save time and red tape in the future, the supervisors authorized Jack Chubb, county property management superintendent, to approve use of the steps for uses relative to public functions in the future without getting approval from the board.

Group Effort Planned for Realty Board

A group working together with a well-planned program is the goal of newly-elected Board of Realtors president, Mrs. Isabelle Cameron. She indicated some of her plans for the year in a statement released to the Sun today. "Realtors are pledged 'to protect the individual right of real estate ownership' and 'to seek better to represent their clients,'" she said. "In keeping with this pledge, we will stress and further our work in conjunction with the California Real Estate Association towards endorsing legislation which protects the individual right of real estate ownership and in fighting legislation contrary to those rights."

Formal Installation

Mrs. Cameron took office in formal installation ceremonies this week at a Tennis Club dinner meeting. She succeeds Mrs. Theresa Press, who has just completed two years at the post.

Continuing her statement on her hopes for the year, Mrs. Cameron reported:

"We will continue to work closely with our Chamber of Commerce, our City Council and Planning Commission. We are fortunate able to render considerable service in these fields, because we are represented by realtors on the City boards, and CREA is continually working at a State level along the lines of protection for our property owners individual rights."

Committees Formed

"Committees have been formed within our Board to further the very strict and well-observed Code of Ethics of a realtor and we will strive to project to our property owners the importance of handling their properties through those who are members of our Board of Realtors, because of the knowledge and integrity mandatory for one to be admitted as a member of a Board of Realtors."

"We will have speakers throughout the year — expert in their particular fields of endeavor — who will come before our Board to keep us alerted and informed on conditions and areas wherein this knowledge will improve our members in their ability to more advantageously represent the property owners."

"We are a group working together with a well-planned and well-selected Board of Directors and Committee Heads and to quote the words of our 1961 president, Mrs. Press, 'our work is not the function of one, but the function of all of the members of the Palm Springs Board of Realtors.'"

Indian Wells Zoning OK

RIVERSIDE — In spite of repeated urging that more buffer zoning be injected in plans for revising the Indian Wells zoning plan, the board of supervisors overruled the objections voiced by Enos Reid, attorney for the Indian Wells Property Owners Association, and members of the organization. The board upheld the recommendations of the planning commission for changes in the area.

Reid referred to portions of the changes as "spot zoning for which no justification has been made," and "an infringement on existing single family residential zones."

In reference to restricted commercial zoning at the corner of Miles and Washington, Supervisor George Berkey said it is an extension of an existing zone rather than spot zoning as charged by Reid.

Marnel development Co., Inc., builders of the new active retirement project, Palm City, won an armload of trophies at the recent National Association of Home Builders Convention - Exposition held in Chicago.

The firm received five top national awards, including a special trophy from Look Magazine, for its outstanding merchandising program for Palm City, an 1,800-unit self-contained community being built near Palm Springs for senior citizens 50 years of age or over.

Daniel B. Grady, Marnel vice president for planning, accepted the awards, largest number of citations won by any builder at the convention attended by more than 32,000.

The Palm City project won a large silver trophy in the Look Magazine 4th Annual Awards for Excellence in Marketing New Homes competition. The special citation for superior marketing of a retirement community was presented at a LOOK Magazine breakfast at the Blackstone Hotel.

Practical Builder Magazine, a leading trade publication in Chicago, also awarded Marnel a bronze special mention plaque for "excellence in merchandising" in its 12th annual competition.

Marnel was named winner of three national awards in the merchandising contest sponsored by the Journal of Homebuilding, official magazine of the National Association of Home Builders. A first prize sterling silver tray in the contest's best brochure category and a plaque for outstanding site signs were presented to the firm at ceremonies during the convention. Marnel was also awarded a special plaque for having one of the best planned promotions of any entrant in the contest.

Savant Sees 'Dial' Cooking

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—The Home Economics Institute Director for the U.S. Agriculture Department says that by 1980 a housewife may be able to "Dial a meal" in the morning and have it ready to serve at the stroke of dinner time.

Reporting in the Stanford Research Institute Journal, Dr. Hazel Stiebeling envisioned several such possibilities for the kitchen of 1980.

Cold surface cooking and gas from flexible pipes with safe means of plugging in at different points will be developed, together with electricity from fuel cells.

With these improvements a meal could be cooked in the room where it is served. Other facilities would have to accompany this development—such as built-in or mobile cupboards, permanent or portable refrigerating and waste disposal units, and hot and cold water dispensers.

Even if future kitchens remain as they are now, their appearance is likely to change, because food will be packaged and stored differently.

TIPIFYING the swimming pool way of life prevalent at Rancho Palmaras Estates in Palm Desert, Robert Becker and his wife, Ann, right, have built an umbrella-shaded bar in their swimming pool. With them being shown the unique facility is Hazel Kirk of Rancho Palmaras. The 120-acre development, adjoining famed Eldorado Country Club, has just announced the opening of its fourth unit of estate-sized homesites. First three units are near the sell-out stage, according to E. M. "Pete" Peterson, of San Marino, owner-developer of the project.

There's Time To Decorate

CHICAGO (UPI)—There's still time to brighten the dining room before throwing it open to holiday parties.

All it takes is the right shade of paint. Here are some factors to consider in choosing color for a redecoration.

The dining room is one of the few areas where you can depart from the usual practice of painting a small room a light color and a large room a deeper shade.

Decorators say it is not too important to select wall colors that make the dining room look bigger or smaller.

They advocate, instead, keying the color of dining room walls to furniture and fabrics. If the furniture is a dark wood, light walls provide a good background. Light wood, on the other hand, looks more striking against a deeper background shade.

The selection of a warm or cool hue should be made on the basis of colors in the draperies and upholstery. If fabrics are predominantly warm shades—red, pink, gold, orange, or yellow—temper their glow by painting the walls a cool, restful blue, blue-green, blue-gray or lilac. Where fabrics fall into the cool color families, let the walls provide the warmth.

Silver Spur Development Moving Fast

Sales of homes and homesites in the new residential community development at famous Silver Spur Ranch are excellent, according to the realty division of the Bundza-Wethern corporation, development coordinators announced. Several contractual homes are nearing completion and many homesites have been reserved, officials said.

Robert Wethern, president of Bundza-Wethern, Inc., said that this initial phase of the master plan for developing the remaining acreage in Silver Spur Ranch encompasses an exclusive estate area, a limited number of garden homes, and fine view sites in two locations. Lot reservations and home construction orders are being taken now.

Bundza-Wethern, he continued, supplies the services of renowned architectural designers, interior decorators, construction craftsmen, and financial advisers, an assurance to each client of a minutely detailed, highly individualized home.

Strict Control Set

The entire area has been put under strict architectural control to preserve the plan for an overall atmosphere of exclusiveness. This measure is traditional to the Bundza - Wethern philosophy of creating fine, well - conceived residential communities, and permeates all corporate activities throughout Southern California.

The first garden home, reserved for a Bundza-Wethern model, will soon be completed. The remainder of the garden homes planned for construction at this time will be progressively ready for occupancy over the next month.

The design concept for these homes was one of integrated, luxury indoor-outdoor living. Each will be completely landscaped, with plant selections tempered by the maintenance factor in consideration of the future residents, and an aura of privacy will prevail in the shielded patios and lanais.

Two customized, Bundza-Wethern originals are nearly completed, and are being landscaped now. Two other Bundza-Wethern homes, under construction, will serve as model homes for the exclusive estates area and be on display by mid-January. These houses, as well as the contractual homes now being built, are demonstrative of the harmony and originality in housing and lot orientation that will distinguish this area. Expansion of the exclusive estate area is now being planned, and homesite reservations for this new development are being taken.

Other projects are being carried on concurrently with the construction of homes and expanded grading operations, Wethern said. One such project covers improvement and completion of the recreational area, which had commenced prior to the Bundza-Wethern appointment as development coordinator.

This area has now been redesigned to include a putting green, a large parking lot, and a shuffleboard court. Planned as a leisure center for the future residents of Silver Spur Ranch, the area features a custom-designed swimming pool and associated, landscaped decking area, a cabana and a modern bathhouse. Landscaping for the entire recreational site has been planned and is in process.

Bundza-Wethern architects and engineers, in master-planning the ranch community, reserved a large circular section of land at the upper portion of Silver Spur Trail, the main boulevard through the ranch.

Canadians Arrive In Surprise Visit

CATHEDRAL CITY — Canadian residents Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Merryfield of Vancouver, B. C. and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Rosling, from Nelson, B. C., arrived Sunday for a two-day surprise visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Templeton, owners of Desert Villa.

Merryfield and Templeton were co-workers for many years with the Canadian National Railroad in Vancouver where Merryfield is associated with the purchasing department.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Templeton Monday night on their 39th wedding anniversary, her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gieson of Palm Springs hosted dinner at the Howard Manor. Cocktails at the Templeton home preceded dinner.

Among the guests at the Desert Villa are John and Tommy Felmeling of Tulsa, Okla., and Gene Terris, pianist at La Quinta. Continuing their holiday, Mr. and Mrs. Merryfield and Mr. and Mrs. Rosling left for several days in Las Vegas.

Mrs. Ethel Otto of Oakland is here to spend the holidays with her son and daughter-in-law, Warner and Flora Otto.

Weekend houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Veitch was her sister, Mrs. Kitty Tiner, who makes her home in Lakewood.

Lou Jacobin is back at his desert home compiling material for his 16th edition of "Guide to Alaska." During the summer, Lou spent two and a half months touring Europe. In Italy, he visited with relatives on his father's side, meeting them for the first time and visited many places of interest associated with his family.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Has The Machine Finally Overtaken 'Mere' Humans?

By DICK WEST

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The convocation of a national computer conference here this week gave me an opportunity to pursue a question that had been nagging me for several years.

Do these fancy new electronic instruments, which have been making prophets out of science fiction writers, actually think?

Everyone knows that computers have been performing feats of calculation and other mathematical tasks that far exceed the capacities of mere human beings.

But are they capable of genuine creative cogitation of the sort involved in the human thought process? In other words, does man still hold a slight edge over machine?

I put this question to several of the conference leaders without getting a clear-cut answer. But the fact that they equivocated tended to confirm my fears that machinery now has the upper hand.

Depends on Meaning
"It's a matter of semantics," said Dr. W. H. Ware, chairman of the American Federation of Information Processing Societies which is sponsoring the conference.

"It depends on what you mean by 'think.' We have not duplicated the human brain. But computers are doing things which you would call thinking if you did them."

He said, by way of example, that computers can be made to solve brain-teaser problems, such as the old one about roving a fox, a hen and a bag of corn across the river.

Being somewhat discouraged by Ware's response, I asked another computer man if it were not true that the acumen of a machine is limited to the acumen of the person who feeds it information.

"Not necessarily," he replied. "Suppose a group of people contribute to what goes on this information which would be better than the one arrived at by the group itself."

Beats the Teacher

He went on to say that if a chess expert taught a computer everything that he knew about chess, chances are the pupil would then be able to play a better game than the teacher.

Another conference official spoke of advances in the use of computers as language translators. The aim here is a machine that will go beyond a word-for-word translation and translate in its own words the thought expressed in another language.

He also said as regards creative thinking that there was no reason why computers couldn't compose original musical scores that

Industry in Rural Areas Helps Farms

On The Farm Front

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rural industrialization is a prime method of keeping rural families on the farm, according to a series of studies sponsored by the Agriculture Department.

The studies also showed that introduction of industries into rural areas shifts labor to more productive effort in communities with extensive under-employment, and raises cash income.

These findings resulted from studies of industrial plants in five rural areas. The location of the plants and the work performed:

—Southeastern Louisiana — wirebound boxes.

—Northeastern Mississippi — furniture.

—Central Utah — rubber products.

East Central Iowa—small gasoline engines.

Northwestern Utah — solid fuels for rockets and guided missiles.

The studies were concerned with the effects of industrial plants on rural areas, focused primarily on the family, the farm, and the community.

The findings suggest that rural industrial plants generally are beneficial to low-income areas and, though certain changes occur, traditional patterns of rural life are not unduly disturbed.

The Agriculture Department will end its purchases of frozen ground beef for the National School Lunch Program this week. Since the program began Aug. 23, the department has purchased 38.3 million pounds of frozen ground beef for about $16.1 million.

The department still is in the market for these commodities for the school lunch and distribution to needy families: young chickens, lard, canned pork and gravy, canned chopped beef, and pinto beans. It will start buying canned fruits, vegetables, juices, and raisins for the school lunch.

Electronics to Catch Delinquent Taxpayer Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin suggests that citizens pay up any back taxes before a new electronic checking system discovers their delinquency.

He hinted that taxpayers who voluntarily confess they have deliberately evaded taxes might not be prosecuted for criminal fraud, and indicated those who report accidental omissions would generally be expected only to pay back taxes plus 6 per cent interest.

In a special statement, Caplin said the Revenue Service will begin checking tax returns next month with an electronic system. Only business returns from seven southern states will be checked by the system in 1962, but by 1966 the service plans to use it for all returns.

MRS. PAULINE FOSTER checks over a copy of the recording and accompanying book of "Singing Sounds," which she and her husband created—with the help of illustrators—to help young students learn the alphabet. She teaches at the Frances S. Stevens School in Palm Springs.

Teachers Set Alphabet To Music for Students

Mrs. Pauline Foster, first grade teacher in the Frances S. Stevens School, and her husband, Lawrence Foster, recently published a primary children's book and accompanying record called "Singing Sounds." The record has been on the market for three months and has already sold out its first pressing, the Bowmar Record company reports. The book that accompanies the record is just off the press.

The work is an attempt to put the alphabet to music in such a way that children can associate letter sounds with music they like. The original idea for the record came into being as Mrs. Foster sought to present sounds to children in such a way that they would have less difficulty in remembering them. She and illustrator Dorothea Hodgkinson of the Torrance elementary schools worked out the idea about four years ago.

Foster, a music major and composer, suggested that the idea would be more appealing and beneficial if it were set to music. Result was the recent publication which is receiving immediate public acceptance. The audio-visual department of the University of California at Los Angeles has expressed considerable interest in the work in connection with self teaching aids.

Mrs. Foster has taught remedial reading in the public schools of Michigan and California. She attended Ball State Teachers College, Wayne University and San Diego State College. Her husband, who wrote the catchy melodies and sang them in the recording, has served eight years with the schools of California as music coordinator, principal, and classroom teacher. The Foster team has written and published three books for young readers.

Presently the authors of "Singing Sounds" are working on a sequence to their recent record and book. It is scheduled for spring production, and will extend into the sounds of letters for children in grades one and two.

Fuss Over Auto

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mrs. Walter Jr. Wilkins charged in Superior Court Wednesday that her estranged husband made "a greater fuss" over his car than over her and their three children.

Commissioner Glenn M. Pfau awarded Wilkins custody of the Cadillac because he needed "a car that will support his status in the business community" as an aircraft factory customer relations man.

RETIREMENT NEED NOT END PRODUCTIVE WORK

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maurice du Pont Lee retired 12 years ago and has been working hard ever since. He says a man has no right to stop all gainful activity just because he is growing old—and he practices what he preaches.

For 40 years, Lee, a member of the industrial du Pont family and a Lee of Virginia, worked as an engineer for Du Pont in Wilmington. Not long after he left the world of industry, he and a group of retired friends organized Consulting and Advisory Services, Inc., to give the benefit of their years of experience to businesses in need of help.

Other "Chapters" Formed

The organization has functioned only in Wilmington, but so successfully in more than a decade of helping others that retired men in other cities have formed their own versions of this "Economic Anonymous." They have helped straighten out ill - kept books of faltering concerns, given useful advice on production methods and even rescued a widow from being bilked by an unscrupulous "adviser."

In St. Louis, 100 retired men have formed Experience, Inc., whose members not only offer business aid but have volunteered to the Mayor for appointment to civic committees and have offered to serve on grand juries.

"There are, I believe, about four million financially independent retired men in this country," Lee said. "All too large a percentage are inactive. Many drift to Florida or elsewhere, find a convenient palm tree and sit, awaiting the undertaker, who comes promptly under these conditions.

Foresees Strained Economy

"There are close to 16 million persons in this country over 65. The number increases at the rate of half-million per year and will soon reach 20 and then 25 million, because of the increase in life expectancy. Of these millions about 40 per cent are financially independent, the remainder being partly or wholly dependent upon others for subsistence. If these percentages maintain as the millions increase, it is easy to see that our economy will be strained.

"Of the 4.5 million businesses in this country almost 3.5 million employ less than 50 people each. This is 'small business' and since no building is better than its foundation, our country is no better than the security and permanence of these small businesses.

"It is horrifying to know that 35 per cent of the businesses started fail in less than two years, with all the loss of money, labor and energy which results. If even a small fraction of the 40 per cent of our financially independent people all over the country can be stirred out of their rocking chairs to volunteer their services to those in their immediate community who can benefit by their advice, these failures can be curtailed enormously."

Study Slush Drag

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space and aviation agencies have scheduled a conference here for Dec. 19-20 on runway slush problems encountered by jet aircraft in winter. Experiments have shown that slush drag is a hazard to jets.

Shetland Pony Answers Convent Christmas Prayer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A Christmas prayer was answered a little early this year for youngsters at a Catholic convent when they learned today that "Honeybun" could spend the holidays with them.

Honeybun is a shaggy Shetland pony that came to stay at the Convent of the Good Shepherd about a month ago. The owner, a local real estate man, said he could not take the small pony away when he saw what a "wonderful time" it gave the children.

The 20 youngsters, mostly from broken homes, were placed at the convent by the courts. Honeybun quickly won a place in the hearts of all, including the nuns.

The convent also had two mules when the local health department served notice last month that all three had to go because of an ordinance against keeping such animals in the city.

The nuns, led by their mother superior, Mother Mary of St. Columbia, gave up the mules but the children were broken-hearted at the thought of losing Honeybun. Help was sought from an attorney, who wrote the health department for a reprieve for the pony.

Dr. L. M. Graves, local health director, heeded their pleas. He promised that unless complaints were lodged against the pony, no further action would be taken "before next spring."

Defense Dept. Says Cuts Due For Reserves

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Guard reserve forces may be pared down by as much as 10 combat divisions even if appropriations and manpower strength levels remain the same, according to defense sources.

A plan being studied would increase the strength of the divisions and provide them with more expensive equipment, which would mean a cut in the number of paid civilian reservists at a time when more were needed.

"Something would have to give," the sources said.

There are 27 National Guard and 10 Army reserve combat divisions now, most of which have paper strengths of 13,000 men and actual strengths well below that. The plan calls for divisions averaging 15,000 men.

Last week Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said there would be "no significant reductions" in the reserve ranks. But if Congress approved the plan and it was carried out, six to 10 divisions could be eliminated.

The proposals were announced last April and have been put under renewed study because of the Berlin buildup and complaints from reservists which emphasize the need for keeping civilian out-fits near full strength.

Most of the complaints have come from reservists called up as fillers for below-strength units who, contrary to some congressional criticism, were not getting drill pay before the call-up.

The Army called more than 39,000 fillers in a total force of 118,000 reservists and Guardsmen. The 32nd National Guard Division from Wisconsin, which had 9,915 men, was one of the strongest units called but it still needed 3,785 fillers to reach its 13,700-man authorized strength.

They Sent One Pretty Diplomat

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Probably the prettiest people-to-people ambassador ever sent south of the border is Janet Leigh, who recently returned from South America enchanted by her role.

"I spent almost two months in Argentina and Brazil making friends with people," she said. "And I'm sure I learned more than they did."

"The most important and surprising thing to me is that we know and understand so little about one another. I had many misconceptions about South America," and the people I talked to also had peculiar ideas about us."

Janet made the trip with her husband, Tony Curtis, who was making a new movie in Salta, Argentina.

During much of the time Curtis was before the cameras Janet visited 11 cities under the auspices of the State Department which paid part of her travel expenses.

Many so-called good will ambassadors from Hollywood spend their time abroad at fancy embassy teas and social functions. Not Janet.

"I went to hospitals, orphanages and held press conferences," Janet said. "My whole approach was to meet people on their own terms and in places where they felt most relaxed and at ease."

"I was determined not to talk to them about democracy. I tried to be the kind of person they could like."

"The question they asked me most often was, 'Why are you visiting us?' They found it extraordinary that a Hollywood actress would travel all that distance just to get to know Brazilians and Argentinians."

"They are warm-hearted people who show their emotions, and they treated me royally. Their acceptance of me as a friend was the most touching thing I've ever experienced."

The blonde glamour girl said she was prepared to pay her own expenses during the trip, but the State Department wanted to make it official.

"I'm returning to New York where I will spend some time with United States Information Service and State Department representatives who want a full report of my trip—my observations, opinions and feelings about everything," Janet said.

"What will I tell them?" "Well, I think the countries of North and South America have much more in common than any of us realize. We North Americans have no idea how much progress has been made down there, how modern things have become in most cities."

"The best thing to do is encourage as much interchange of ideas and culture as possible. It's not only good for international relations, but also for the individuals involved."

After watching Evalani, diners can loosen up their own hips to the music of Tommy Ainau and his Hawaiian Serenaders.

Shows are twice nightly and feature former Harry Owens' singing and dancing star Prince Kawoki.

Yale Farar and Bob Edwards, former maitre d' at Tennis Club, are new managers of Sportsmen's Club restaurant and plan a formal opening tomorrow evening.

For the occasion, entertainers from other spots around town will drop in to delight guests... until 4 a.m.

The Don Tosti orchestra opens tonight for its second season in the Howard Manor's Celebrity Lounge.

Tosti has just completed a limited engagement in the Brazilian Room of Hernando Courtright's Beverly Wilshire Hotel and, last summer, he appeared at Lake Tahoe in the Cal Neva Lodge.

Also back for another season are Clyde Rogers and his orchestra at the Racquet Club, opening Dec. 22, and Vin Riley and his orchestra at Shadow Mountain Club.

Friends that "he knew when" he was a Brooklyn school boy gathered in Chi Chi's Starlite Room to see Ray Hastings, who is currently appearing with Lili St. Cyr and The Four Tops.

New Yorkers in the theater party were comedian Buddy Hackett, the Bill Manhoffs (he's the writer and creator of "Pete and Gladys" and "Hennessey"), Columbia writers Arnie Sulton and Marvin Worth and Tom Postin of truth telling and Steve Allen fame.

Arturo Sanchez, of Lewis and Sanchez who appeared at Howard Manor last year, was surprised and honored on his birthday when his friends presented him with a piano-shaped cake.

Appropos of the occasion and the honored guest at King's Row in Anaheim, the cake was decorated with the musical notes of "The Birthday Song."

Reed Recommended No. 1 Amateur Tennis Player

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —The United States Lawn Tennis Association today recommended Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., as the No. 1 amateur player in the country.

Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., who is considered America's brightest hope for international stardom, was ranked second and veteran Bernard (Tut) Bartenz of Dallas, Tex., was placed third.

The rankings were released by Edward Turville, who will take over as president of the USLTA at its annual meeting in Los Angeles next February, the same time these rankings come up for confirmation.

Reed, a six-foot, 180-pounder, is a steady performer but lacks the on-the-court color of McKinley. Now 29, he has been playing tennis since his early childhood and first made the top 10 in 1957. McKinley, just 20 years old, is a veteran of several U.S. Davis Cup teams but lost his chance at the No. 1 ranking because he devoted most of his time this year to schoolwork. He was unable to go to Italy a few months ago to play in the interzone finals of the Davis Cup and many observers feel this cost the United States the series.

Janet Welsh To Reign As UCLA Queen

The Desert Empire will play a leading role in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic scheduled for the Sports Arena there Dec. 27-30. Janet Welsh, UCLA senior coed of Cathedral city, will reign as the Bruins' queen at the event along with Carolee Ream, USC's queen.

McKinley is highly respected in international circles and is ranked fifth among the world's amateur tennis players.

Bartenz, 34, also had to curtail his playing in 1961 because of business commitments.

Youth held down most of the remaining spots in this year's recommended top 10. Former Stanford University quarterback star Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., was No. 4 and Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., a recent Yale graduate, was fifth.

Completing the top 10 in order were Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., Allen Fox of Los Angeles, Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., and William Bond of La Jolla, Calif.

football and the National League a prestige victory over the rival American League.

"We will make every effort to sign Davis," said the Browns' chairman of the board, Arthur Modell, after Cleveland acquired NFL rights to dicker with Davis by sending halfback Bobby Mitchell and Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois to the Washington Redskins. "We have something different in mind to offer him, something that transcends dollars."

Modell refused to say what the mysterious inducement was but NFL experts believed the ever-efficient Browns were certain they will sign Davis shortly after he plays his final game for Syracuse against Miami in the Liberty Bowl game Saturday.

The Browns, who also revealed that they have signed Maryland end Gary Collins, their No. 1 draft choice, hope that a running combination featured by Davis and Jimmy Brown would enable them to win their first NFL title since 1955.

Brown, 6-2 and 230 pounds, has led the NFL in each of his four seasons with the pros. Davis, 6-2 and 212 pounds, would take some of the pressure off Brown and presumably make him even more effective. At the same time, Davis' physical ability to handle heavy-duty chores probably would lengthen Brown's career.

Davis is the most glamorous and most sought-after player in the college ranks this year and his signing with the Browns would give the NFL a prestige triumph of major proportions over the AFL. The Buffalo Bills have AFL drafts rights to Davis.

Lakers Face Chicago on Road Jaunt

CHICAGO (UPI) — Riding an eight-game win streak, the Los Angeles Lakers move into Chicago tonight for a game against the newest and poorest club in the National Basketball Association—the Chicago Packers.

It is the first of a three-game road trip for the Lakers, who are nearing that Jan. 2 date when Elgin Baylor is due to report for active duty in the Army.

With Baylor dropping the baskets in around the 50-points per game figure the past few nights, Los Angeles has increased its NBA Western Division record to six full games over the Cincinnati Royals.

The Lakers have won 23 of 30 games this season. Following today's game, the Lakers meet the Syracuse Nationals at Rochester, N.Y., on Sunday.

UCLA Practice Stalled by Rain

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—UCLA's Bruins, stalled momentarily by the weather in their training plans for the Rose Bowl, hoped to get back to the practice field today for a full-scale contact practice session.

That Southern California rarity—rain—made its appearance Thursday and Bruin coach Bill Barnes decided to call off the regular drill. But the players didn't get away without some exercise, running through calisthenics in the men's gym.

Following the indoor workout, the team retired to the viewing room to watch films of Minnesota, the Bruins' New Year's Day opponent in the bowl.

Golfing
with ALEX MORRISON
Teacher of Champions

Arnold Palmer and all top golfers learned that every player needs plenty of familiarity with his method of handling clubs.

EVERY GOLFER, even Hogan, Palmer and Snead, would like to be more sure of what will happen during his next swing at the ball.

This involves two things; the method being used to swing the club and the player's familiarity with the method. The best players use some approximation of the Correct Swing Pattern and spend years acquiring all possible familiarity with this approximation.

The more a player's positions and movements vary from the Correct Pattern the greater is his need for familiarity with them.

Yet inconsistent performers, using wrong methods, try to get organized simply by making a few hurried practice swings just before hitting the ball. Others argue: "I don't have time for practice."

Only a few minutes per day are required to use the best method of acquiring a feeling of full control over your performance. This is through practicing positions and movements of the Correct Swing Pattern anywhere away from the golf course and its distractions.

Big Five AAWU to Confer With Big Ten on Rose Bowl

Maris Didn't Ink Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Maris "got away," but it wasn't a complete loss because the New York Yankees landed a relief pitcher from the Cincinnati Reds.

Maris, who is believed to be seeking $75,000 for next season, did not sign his 1962 contract Thursday although he chatted almost a half-hour with general manager Roy Hamer and both described the talk as "amicable."

No sooner had the two finished their conversation, then the Yankees obtained southpaw reliever Marshall Bridges from Cincinnati for catcher Jesse Gonder.

Bridges, 30, had a 6-8 record with Jersey City of the International League last season and was 0-1 with the Reds.

Gonder, who will be 26 next month, impressed the Yankees in spring training, but disappointed them after he was sent to Richmond of the International League shortly after the season started. He batted only .226 for Richmond and had nine homers.

Maris headed for his Raytown, Mo., home following his discussion with Hamer. The 26-year-old home run king will be back in the East again next month, at which time he is expected to sign for somewhere between $60,000 and $70,000. He received slightly more than $35,000 last season.

Erdelatz May Coach Army

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Eddie Erdelatz, the waffle-eared man with the face-wide grin, is looking for a football coaching job—and he doesn't care where it is.

Erdelatz, possibly the most successful unemployed college grid coach in history, currently is flirting with Army about the possibility of landing that job.

"It certainly would make some kind of history if I wound up at Army, after all those years at Navy," says Erdelatz.

For those who came in late, Eddie established himself as a top-flight coach while head man at Navy, where he compiled a 30-26-8 record.

After quitting the Navy post, Erdelatz was out of a job for a year, then hooked on as coach of the new Oakland Raiders of the American Football League—which was embarking on its first campaign.

"But that contract runs out at the end of this season," says Eddie, who has been sitting out the campaign since being fired after losing the first two games. "So I'm available."

2 Teams Tied In $25,000 Haig & Haig

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — The $25,000 Haig & Haig scotch mixed foursome golf tournament went to the second round today with a pair of teams tied at 69.

The tourney moved here today from Avon Park, where it will be played on alternate days, led by Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., paired with Kathy Whitworth, Jal. N.M., and Johnny Pott, Eunice, La., teamed with Marilyn Smith, Jupiter, Fla.

Both teams in the two-ball event finished the first round with three-under-par 69s.

Tied at 70 were Ernie Vossler, Fort Worth, Tex., and Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C.; and Sam Snead, Boca Raton, Fla., and Patty Berg, Fort Myers, Fla. The low amateurs were Joe Carr of Worcester, Mass., and Barbara Wolf of Naples, Fla.

Twenty men professionals teamed with 20 women pros in the second annual event, which will end here Sunday after 72 holes.

Back at 71 were Dow Finsterwald, Jupiter, Fla., and Marlene Hagge, Delray Beach, Fla.; Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., and Mickey Wright, Dallas, Tex.; Gardner Dickinson Jr., West Palm Beach, Fla., and Murle Mackenzie Lindstrom, Pinellas Park, Fla.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Big Five (AAWU) completed plans today to confer with the Big Ten on a program for renewal of a Rose Bowl contract that has been dormant for the past two years.

And if all things go well, the new pact will be signed, sealed and delivered before start of the 1962 college gridiron season.

"We don't know what the Big Ten will have to offer in the way of a new contract," said Ray Kooker of University of Southern California, the conference president. "But we are willing to listen and we all hope that something can be worked out."

The Big Ten, reversing an earlier stand, recently voted 6-4 to reopen negotiations with the AAWU on the possibility of a new pact.

The old contract between the Big Ten and the now defunct Pacific Coast Conference lasted 13 years, with one year lapsing over to the Big Five, which replaced the PCC. The past two years, including the upcoming struggle with UCLA, Minnesota has been in the bowl on an invitational basis.

In the past 14 consecutive years, the Big Ten has won 11 games, the West Coast representative only three—but including the last two tilts in which Washington defeated Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Named to the committee to represent the Big Five in the negotiations are athletic directors Al Masters, Stanford; Wilbur Johnson, UCLA, and Jess Hill, USC; faculty representative Jack Gose of Washington and Tom Hamilton, executive director of the AAWU.

Today's session of the annual winter meeting was spent going over problems involved in the operation of the Rose Bowl. Included in the conferences were Lathrop Leishman, chairman of the Tournament of Roses football committee and Judge Burton Nobles, president of the Tournament of Roses.

Thursday the Big Five took this action:

—Agreed to add 90 seats to the Rose Bowl, bringing the capacity to 100,890. The cost will be around $3,000.

—Completed schedules on five sports, including track and field, tennis, golf, swimming and water polo.

—Announced a slight per-game attendance increase with 35,899 at home games, compared with 35,072 in 1960. However, total attendance was slightly down at 1,083,164 for 28 games, compared with 1,104,080 for 29 games in 1960.

Washington led in home attendance with 316,148 for six games. USC was next at 247,927 for the same number of tilts.

U.S. Orders Ingemar to Pay Taxes

MIAMI (UPI) — The U.S. government won a decision here Thursday over former heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson.

Federal Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Montgomery, Ala., ruled the Swedish boxer must pay $1,009,801 in back taxes to the U.S. government.

The tax judgments against Johansson cover the proceeds from his title fights with Floyd Patterson on June 26, 1959, June 20, 1960, and March 13, 1961.

Johnson ordered the fight promoters, Feature Sports, Inc., and its officers to turn over to the government some $260,000 being

METS SIGN HURLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets of the National League have signed 26-year-old pitcher Evans Killeen to a contract with Syracuse of the International League. Killeen, a right-hander from Elmont, N.Y., was invited to work out at the spring training camp of the Mets.

Reds In Great Promise

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—Promises of the new Party Program, from more sweaters to space platforms, are spread out for the Soviet people to see at the unique Permanent Exposition of Soviet Achievements.

Displays of vacuum cleaners and shoes emphasize what more hard work can bring. Charts on hog production educate the people on how to work harder. And countless displays tell the thousands of Soviet visitors who stream through the Exposition every day what the Communist Party is doing and will do for their benefit.

Other countries erect back-patting exhibitions to show off to foreigners abroad. But the Soviet Union at a cost of millions of rubles constructed its Exposition for its own people.

Space Achievements Lauded
The Exposition's more than 200 buildings sprawl alongside the Yaroslavskoye Highway on the outskirts of Moscow. The most popular pavilion with young people is the white Academy of Sciences building holding models of Soviet Sputniks and rockets. Signs proclaim the Russians were first in rocket exploration. Others depict future space platforms revolving around the earth.

The Estonian pavilion displays modern furniture that is dribbling slowly to waiting lines in Soviet stores. Big red apples, a contrast to the small green ones in Moscow markets, form colorful rows. Beautiful sweaters hang next to charts promising that production of shoes, knitwear, handbags and other goods will increase sevenfold by 1965.

Teach Agricultural Reforms
The Exposition was built in 1954 to teach agricultural reforms to visiting (and usually reactionary) peasants from around the country. Industrial pavilions were added later. Around the fair grounds you see groups of collective farmers and factory managers, the wide trousers on the men and long, mannish suit jackets of the women indicating they are from the provinces. They carefully examine new Soviet tractors, displays on how to plant corn and the latest electronic computers.

The Exposition grounds rival, fountain for fountain, the extravagant splendor of the rulers of another era, at Peter the Great's palace near Leningrad.

One of these modern Soviet fountains consists of golden sheaves of wheat surrounded by hefty maidens representing labor. A colossal silver-colored statue in front of the main entrance depicts the new Soviet man and woman, be-muscled and with hair streaming, holding up a hammer and sickle. In the entrance hall a statue of Lenin is surrounded by the ever-present slogans.

A peace display, apparently old, shows an atomic bomb with the sign, "Nyet!" (no). Tourists stare at gigantic painted murals showing the usual surging masses of smiling workers, lofty Kremlin towers and flying red banners. Music pours from a loudspeaker and a sign commands, "Forward to Communism!"

Things Just Must Get Better Here

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "This must be the turning point—things have to get better," said Benjamin C. Larke, 32, Bell, as news-men and police dug into their pockets to help him out.

Larke was right—things couldn't get much worse.

—His wife, Elonia, 29, is in County General Hospital with hepatitis.

—He lost his job as an electrical repairman last Wednesday.

—Larke recently got out of General Hospital where he was treated for an infected leg.

—One of their five children was in General Hospital last year with polio.

—The family lost all their worldly possessions Monday night when a 1948 truck being used to take the goods to Larke's brother's home in Glendale caught fire on the freeway after a tire blew out.

DONOR ATTRACTIONS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Public contributions toward Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts have been solicited on a price tag basis—from $5, for 3 feet of dancer's practice bar or 118 bricks to $5 million for the auditorium of the Metropolitan Opera House.

In between, donors may buy an adjustable piano bench for $40, an exit light for $150, a seat (with his name on it but no promise of occupancy) for $1,000, or the Met's wig shop for $15,000.

Juvenile Referrals Higher

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A total of 58,741 juveniles, a little more than 2 per cent of Californians between the ages of 8 and 17, were referred to juvenile probation departments last year, the Attorney General's office said today.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk said the referrals amounted to a 13.1 per cent increase in new cases over 1959.

San Francisco led the populous counties in referral rates, with 22.4 referrals per 10,000 minors. Alameda county's rate was 18.3, Los Angeles 11.4 and San Diego 10.5. Sonoma County recorded the greatest increase in caseload with 39.9 per cent, followed by Solano County with 35.2 per cent, San Diego 27.7 per cent, Alameda 21 per cent, and Los Angeles and San Francisco each up 6.5 per cent.

Defense Was 'Wrong' For Calling Reserves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric said Thursday military planners probably were "wrong" in thinking reservists should be mobilized to meet cold war crises. Gilpatric, noted for his candor, told a news conference he had thought the Defense Department could mobilize and demobilize military reservists to deal with cold war emergencies. "I may have been wrong in that," he said.

Earlier, Gen. James A. Van Fleet told President Kennedy that an inspection of six training camps convinced him that the morale of reservists and guardsmen called up in the Berlin crisis was "magnificent."

Van Fleet, who discussed the matter with reporters after reporting to the President for about 45 minutes, said complaints about morale and equipment shortages were based on gripes by a "rather insignificant group" of reservists.

While Gilpatric shouldered whatever blame there might be for the reserve call up, observers noted that the mobilization plans were the work of the entire civilian leadership of the military forces.

Gilpatric made his comment amid continuing controversy over the present reserve call up and unneeded reports that the Pentagon was planning to cut out several divisions in the organized reserve forces.

He said some authorities believed that it would be best to rely on the Army National Guard to provide divisions in times of mobilization and on the organized reserve to provide smaller "filler" forces.

There presently are 27 National Guard and 10 reserve divisions. Gilpatric said the Pentagon has tentative plans in the works for releasing the 156,000 reservists recalled in the Berlin crisis but he could not indicate when.

The Army plans to release all its reservists by next June 30. Indications are that the Navy and Air Force will keep their reservists for a full year. In most cases this would expire next Oct. 1.

May Get Kids To Help With The Newspaper

Woeful Desert Sun staffers, ruled by the ticking of a clock, are considering adding an eighth grade committee of advisors.

In one recent story concerning an aquarium Nellie N. Coffman Junior High School students built after a visit to Doheny State Beach, the alert eighth-graders spotted two typographical errors, and two misspellings — presumably "typos," in the trade.

The youngsters brought the matter to the attention of Mrs. Geraldine Howlett, an instructor of an accelerated class who also doubles in academic brass as the school district press aide.

"Why couldn't we keep our goofs to people our age, who don't see that well?" one editor queried plaintively.

He Was Found Out of Uniform

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — "General" Frank Purness was in the guardhouse today because a sergeant found him out of uniform.

Highway Patrol Sgt. T. R. Granger became suspicious of Purness because he was wearing an Army general's summer uniform in sub-zero weather. A check showed Purness was driving a stolen car.

Two Southwest Books on Highlight Party at P.D.

PALM DESERT — Two books highlighting the great Southwest will be featured at the Art Gallery here Saturday when the authors will be on hand for an "Autograph Party" held in conjunction with a Christmas party. Hours for the event are from 3 to 6 p.m.

Featured authors are Randall Henderson, founder and former publisher of Desert Magazine, and Charles (Chuck) Shelton, present editor and publisher of the magazine.

Shelton's book is a photograph album-sized compilation of pictures of the old Southwest covering the era from 1883 to 1910. Entitled "Photo Album of Yesterday's Southwest," the book contains more than 190 pictures selected from some 240,000 photographs in the files of the Arizona Pioneers' Historical Society, the Nevada Historical Society, and other museums in the southwest. It was published by the Desert Magazine.

Title of Henderson's new book is "The Desert, Today and Yesterday." It discusses the Southwest's deserts, geography, water supply, exploration, emigration, settlement, tribal life, bizarre characters and recreational assets. The book contains over 350 pages, and over 50 maps and pictures. It was published by Westernlore Publishers in Los Angeles.

The program Saturday will also feature the music and paintings of John Hilton, whose works are Dec. 28.

Police Call Halt To One Campaign For Education

Palm Springs police have found some educational work being done here, but it had nothing to do with the school district.

Larry Paul Breeding, Redlands, was picked up by police after a resident called the station concerning a sales solicitation campaign. Breeding reportedly said that he was conducting a survey for the school district, then said he worked for the General Electric Collier Corp.

How We Made It

A PAPER MOSAIC
By Ann Jones (13),
1037 Tamarisk, P. S.

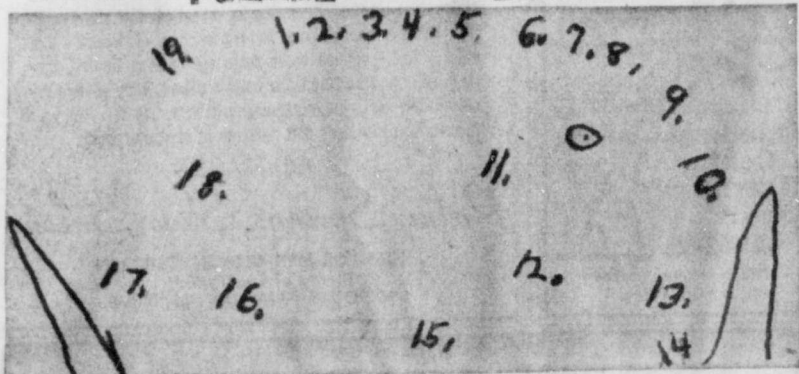

Supplies: scissors, glue (clear-drying kind), glass or jar, magazine with colored pictures.

Anyone who has scissors can make an attractive mosaic on a jar, plate, or almost any object with colored paper triangles, scissors and glue. The first step is to cut a number of triangles out of some brightly colored pictures from a magazine. The triangles can be perfect with all sides the same length, or imperfect with sides of varying lengths. Second, you fit the triangles on the article to be decorated with a generous amount of glue. Be careful though, that every space is covered, because on this kind of mosaic it mosaic slightly glossy and so that looks messy to have uncovered spaces. Third, you finish this project by coating the whole mosaic with the glue. This makes the mosaic slightly glossy and so that the triangles will not peel off.

MY PIRATE STORY
By Chris Givens (8),

Three pirates came to Palm Springs. Their names were Chris, Jeff and Scott. They robbed the bank. Then they went to their ship. It was a pirate ship. Chris went under water and found a sunken ship. He went in it. He found a chest of gold. He brought it up to the ship.

Another ship came. They had a war. The pirates won the war. Then they went around the world and did the same thing.

The movie I am going to talk about is called Shannon. It is on Monday nights at 7:00.

The main star is a man named Shannon, who is played by George Nador.

The movie is about a detective (Shannon). Like any other detective movie, Shannon is out to find the criminals.

I think it is a very good movie because it is written well. I also like George Nador when he acts in most movies.

NASA's Politics Hits Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is reason to suspect that NASA is playing politics with the news at the expense of maximum information for the taxpayers. NASA is the National Space and Aeronautics Administration.

December 7, NASA revealed one of its most important decisions about landing an American on the moon. It decided to explore a rendezvous in orbit as a method of getting there. The other method would be by a direct ascent approach to the moon—a one-shot leap from the earth. NASA believes rendezvous might speed the project by two years. To re-shape the existing Mercury Program toward producing a two-man space-craft capable of docking with another vehicle in orbit will cost about $500 million. Taxpayers would want to know all about that.

This costly decision was revealed by NASA in a speech in Houston, Tex. The speech was by Robert R. Gilruth, chief of the Manned Spacecraft Center recently located by NASA in Houston. He addressed the Houston Chamber of Commerce. Only late that evening did NASA make available in Washington the barest minimum of Gilruth's announcement.

Even that bit could not be printed until 9:30 p.m., EST.

Newspapers in the central time zone and westward got the announcement in good time. Most Eastern newspapers were skunked. So far as Eastern time zone readers were concerned, this momentous and expensive decision was the exclusive property of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

Houston newsmen are as good or better than Washington newsmen. There are newsmen in Washington, however, who have specialized in news of NASA, of manned flight and missiles. There are, perhaps, half a dozen such specialists. They are better qualified than other Washington newsmen and better qualified than Houston newsmen to report in some depth the story NASA broke in Houston.

Joseph L. Myler has written much about space for United Press International. Myler has some ideas on the subject of the Gilruth speech. He has been in the Washington bureau of UPI for 20 years. Drawing on his experience with government bureaucracy, Myler had this to say: "What happened, obviously, is that NASA decided to make a gesture toward Vice President Johnson by giving this story practically exclusively to the Houston Chamber of Commerce. By breaking the story as it did, NASA caught the bulk of morning papers in a difficult spot and the bulk of news offices empty of newsmen familiar with space developments. NASA had no moral right to hold up the announcement until some NASA official was making a speech somewhere. The story involved a hugely expensive program that NASA is trying desperately to sell to the taxpayers. I think this incident was downright shoddy."

has invitations out for its premiere season opening on Saturday, Dec. 30. Attendance at the cocktail buffet is by invitation only.

Joyce and Noel Clarke who established themselves in their Ranch Club Estates home this fall, will hold their annual Christmas party here this year. This has been a traditional party, with the Clarkes' inviting their friends and their children to share in the big family tree. This will be the first time it has been held in Palm Springs and, as they are expecting around 80 guests, it will take place in the Naughty Nineties Room at the Ranch Club. The room with its old-fashioned furniture and warm reds should lend itself nicely to the Christmas decor and holiday merriment.

One of the longest long distance reservations we've heard of is the one that came from Thailand, from Flying Tiger bon vivant Dick Rossi, who sent a request for a table at the Sunday Brunch to Ranch Club's Eddie Pierce. Well, it's one way of being sure of table.

Speaking of Sunday Brunches, one of Palm Springs' most popular forms of entertainment, El Mirador will hold its first of the season on the day before Christmas, with Singing Cowboy Tex Kidwell back to act as master of ceremonies.

The Christmas greeting card from Edith Bamberger in Salt Lake City, says she's been reading the Sun with interest and noting the many returns. They will be leaving Salt Lake on Dec. 27 but stop over in Las Vegas and Beverly Hills, and will be in Pasadena on New Years, coming down to Palm Springs on Jan. 6.

Laurena Heple, who wasn't able to get down to Palm Springs for the Cognac Festival and the Oberfel party, thinks now that she may be occupying her Ocotillo home for the Christmas holidays.

Irwin Schumann has gone all out to be the hospitable host to tonight's Deb Ball. He not only moved a smaller party out of the Mediterranean Room to make way for the Deb Ball, and hastened the work of putting up the new marble walls, but he is also providing the bowls of red and green punch and Christmas cookies, as his Christmas gift to Palm Springs' High School's loveliest girls and their parents and escorts. Around 200 are expected to attend the beautiful formal affair.

Can you imagine living in a home named "Three Little Fishes?" That could happen now that Singer Ginny Simms has entered the shell house industry with her fiancé Don Eastvold, former attorney general of the state of Washington.

They are known as the Ginny Simms' Melody Homes and are being offered on a nation-wide basis, with 10 separate building plans, each named after a song hit with which Ginny has been identified. They are aimed at low-income groups and feature pre-cut paneled construction.

Ginny left this week for Portland, where she will attend meetings on the pre-fab homes, before going on to Ocean Shores, to present the plaque she received in New York for the best interior decorating in Ginny Simms Ocean Shores restaurant.

Returning to Portland, she will speak at a Chamber of Commerce meeting, before coming home for Christmas with her two sons, Conrad, who attends Ojai Valley School, and David, who is a student at University School in Victoria, B. C. and will fly south with his mother.

RENAISSANCE PORCELAINS, done in O. E. L. Graves' new process and possessing an almost ethereal charm, will be shown Sunday at an egg nog and punch party in the Camellia Room at the Tennis Club, being hosted by Mrs. Harry Chaddick and Mrs. Cyrilla Holland, with Hildy Crawford as assistant hostess. Here the artist's wife is shown with three of the porcelains, which are done on wood. The showing is invitational. (Desert Sun Photo) with the Shah of Iran and his Queen, during their stay in Iran. Mrs. Miller is holding the boxed decoration, bestowed on her by the Shah.

Salon Blends Blue and Gold

Maxine Adams Miller, author of "Bright Blue Beads," Philip Ault, who wrote "How to Live in California" and Dr. Anne-Marie Bennstrom, manager of the Golden Door at Escondido, were featured on a blue and gold Christmas program, when Edna Lillich Davidson presented her December book salon luncheon at El Mirador.

Mixing the blue of Persia with the gold of California, the program was themed to "Golden Land of The Dons" and included "The California I Love," Leo Carillo's story as told to Ed Ainsworth, who was a speaker on one of last year's programs in addition to Ault's practical book that he said has been called "immigrant bait," but which tells people what to expect in the way of living conditions in the Golden State, including homes and surroundings, jobs, entertainment, recreation and even something about trailer life. The author said that in preparing the book for publication he himself learned many new things about California.

Mrs. Davidson showed the American Heritage Book of Indians, a richly illustrated history from pre-historic times to the present, with around 500 illustrations.

She reviewed "The Coming Fury," first of a series of three Civil War books by Pulitzer Prize winner Bruce Catton, who is considered the foremost authority on the War Between The States and who has received 18 honorary doctorates from universities and colleges for his literary work. Catton, who has written so much about it, calls the Civil War "Our Illiad and Odyssey."

Author of the best seller "Bright Blue Beads," Maxine Adams Miller, was wearing a blue ensemble and a string of the blue beads, that are pictured on the jacket of her novel, were around her neck. They are made from volcanic ash and it is believed they "frighten away the evil eye."

Mrs. Miller, who has been decorated by the Shah of Iran, said that country is "our only ally left in the middle east."

She found the natives very friendly and hospitable.

In reviewing "A Prologue to Love," by Taylor Caldwell, Mrs. Davidson called it "a woman's novel" and related enough of the fascinating plot to make all her hearers eager to read it.

Dr. Anne-Marie Bennstrom, wearing pants and blouse of gold metallic cloth, made health and beauty within the reach of any woman, as she told a little of the contents of "The Golden Door Book of Beauty and Health," by Edmond Bordeaux Szekely.

"The search for God begins at the point of need," Mrs. Davidson quoted from "Beyond Ourselves" by Catherine Marshall.

She also reviewed "Promise at Dawn," by Romaine Gary, and "My Life in Court," by Louis Nizer, a best seller which heads the non-fiction. It is the story of a life as a lawyer, famed for such cases as the Quentin Reynolds vs Westbrook Pegler.

The program would up with Mrs. Davidson reviewing the Christmas story on "The Real Christmas" by film star and singer Pat Boone, and singing "Silent Night."

Leslie Sommerville accompanied Mrs. Davidson's songs, that were planned to fit into the program, and opened by playing "Concerto in A Flat," by Chopin.

Mrs. Davidson also did one of her usual "Gloria" interpretations this time with a Christmas flavor.

The next book salon luncheon will be held on Jan. 10. The salons are in their second season in Palm Springs, and are held in seven other cities, including Beverly Hills.

Big Ideas in Small Places

By MARY RAMSAY ELLIOTT

"They Live in Little Houses," many great people do; not because they must, necessarily, but often because they prefer to, not wanting the clutter of THINGS to distract them from expressing the creative talent that was born in them. It takes time and freedom from pressure to develop this gift. As a renowned biographer said of Beethoven, "His great genius was developed in solitude." Well, a trailer may or may not give you solitude, depending upon whether you close the door or leave it open to your always-not-too-far-away friends. They seem to know a closed door and a clocking typewriter mean, "see you tomorrow," and go away, perhaps disappointed, but glad to know you are working instead of them.

One brilliant woman, who is spending her second winter in a trailer, in the desert, considers trailer life ideal for getting away from too much entertaining and being "letted" as a celebrity. However she can not be idle while "getting away" and relaxing a bit she will be giving to others the priceless benefit of her experience as one of America's great writers, as she is making plans for a series of creative writing courses in this area, with special emphasis on marketing, for those who aim at professional careers.

Alice Lent Covert, Mrs. Don Watson in private life, is exceptionally well equipped to teach newspaper writing, as she was for sometime a newspaper woman. Then, too, TV and radio writing are right down her alley, as she wrote many stories for such programs as Hallmark, Schilitz Playhouse, Camera Four, Arden Star Theater and Target. It would take too much space to enumerate her novels and the short stories she has had published in all the top-flight magazines in this country. Much of her writing has also been translated abroad, into the Scandinavian languages, German, Italian, Israeli and even Afrikaans, the recognized national language of Africa. But Alice is so modest about her work one would think she might be just any other trailblazer having a wonderful time with all the friends around her.

Her wit and intelligence draw people from all walks of life, as she has such a wide experience of living.

Her husband, too, has had varied experience in many fields, including flying and fire-fighting (Long Beach Fire Department), and he has been invaluable to Alice in the research department. Don recently collaborated with his wife on an excellent story appearing in the Satepost about the Long Beach earthquake, called simply "Earthquake." It is an excellent example of the quality of writing she produces.

Alice Lent Covert's novels, to name a few, are "Return to Dust," "The Months of Rain," "The Distant Drum," "The Glass House," and about twenty-five more. She has 250 short stories to her credit to date, and some others "working." McCall's, Good Housekeeping, Saturday Evening Post, Woman's Home Companion, Readers Digest are some of her repeat publishers for many years.

As I said previously, at the very beginning of this little story, about a great and very human person, "They Live in Little Houses" — and sometimes trailers.

Sisterhood to Sponsor Brunch

The third in a series of benefit brunches featuring Kosher delicacies will be held on Sunday, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Jewish Community Center, Desert Hot Springs, under the sponsorship of the Sisterhood of Nove Shalom. Mrs. Isaac E. Bloch, president of the Sisterhood and Mrs. Sol Winter are co-chairmen for the event. All proceeds will go toward the Center's Building fund.

Church Youth Exchange Ideas

Rabbi Hurwitz and the young people of the Temple Isaiah showed a movie on Israel today and explained the Jewish symbols, beliefs and ceremonies to the young adults of the Palm Desert Community Church, when they visited the Temple as a part of their religious training.

Following the program, the youths of the Temple served refreshments to the 35 visitors.

Pull on the plug — not the electric cord — when you disconnect lamps and appliances. Pulling the cord loosens the copper wires inside. They are likely to break.

You Can Use It

If Santa is planning to replace your mate's tired golf carrier, don't discard just because it's not fit for the course any more. The golf bag will make an ideal carrier for cleaning gear. Mops, brooms and long-handled brushes and sponges fit neatly into the compartment for clubs. Cleaning accessories — cloth, wax and soap—fit into the zippered pocket.

MRS. KENNETH ROHRBACH

Rae Rohrbach Is Leader of Wa O Ki Ya

This is one of a series of picture and thumbnail sketches of Palm Springs women, who are active in Camp Fire.

Mrs. Kenneth Rohrbach, Rae to her co-workers in the Palm Springs Camp Fire program, was born in Granite City, Ill. She with her husband and four children moved to Palm Springs just this past August, but are already sold on this city with its beautiful scenery, friendly people, and unbeatable winter weather.

Rae is a registered nurse. She studied nursing at the Bethany Methodist Hospital in Kansas City, Kansas. She lived most of her life in Nebraska and North Dakota and just a few years ago moved to the Greater Los Angeles Area.

Rae was a Camp Fire Girl and wanted her daughter to enjoy some of the same experiences she had as a girl, so when the call went out for Camp Fire Leaders, Rae responded and is now the leader of the 5th and 6th grade Camp Fire group from the Agua Caliente School. The girls have chosen the name, "Wa O Ki Ya," which is an Indian name meaning helpers, for their group.

In addition to her role as Camp Fire Leader, Rae assists with the work of the school in Cathedral City sponsored by the Foundation for Mentally Retarded. She also works with her husband in his business.

When quizzed on her special interests, she said there wasn't much time for any other interests after her own children and home, her husband's work, and Camp Fire, but that for relaxation she likes to watch her husband bowl.

Cahuilla PTA Will Present First Christmas Festival

Cahuilla PTA has another first. In November this progressive parent-teacher group inaugurated the Movie Matinees to provide the best in screen entertainment for grade school children.

Now, on Dec. 21st at Cahulla cafetorium they bring the first "Christmas Festival."

The "Christmas Festival" is a program designed to delight children of all ages, produced by Joan Woodbury Wilcox with her teenage players.

The Wilcox Players will present three one-act plays: "The Dabblers," a burlesque on hypnosis in a girl's boarding school, starring Phyllis Flax; the "Happy Prince," Oscar Wilde's inspiring fantasy and "The Real Spirit of Christmas," an original comedy written by Dee Hicks, a junior at Palm Springs High School, starring radio announcer Ben Smith as Santa Claus.

The Wilcox Players made their theatrical debut in Los Angeles appearing for the American National Theatre and Academy's "Annual Children's Festival" in November.

Early this month they presented the "Christmas Festival" for the children of San Bernardino at the Orange Show for two matinees.

Members of the company appearing in the Festival are: Tina Farmer, Joyce Schoenfeld, Dee Hicks, Elissa Carlette, Beth Cromb, Kathy Stainbrook, Sally di Paola, Ralph Farmer, Douglas Kester and Richard Bellmore.

Ushers for the Festival at Cahulla cafetorium will be: Pat Angel, Virginia Mullins, Jackie Bunting, Joan Ryan, Vellina Malach and Mary Alchian.

Toastmistresses To Put Hands in Christmas Pie

Television in Review

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first "Bob Hope Show" of the season, on NBC-TV Wednesday night, gave us a parade of campus queens, Hollywood starlets, football stars and guest stars, some good laughs and too many cheap plugs.

Let's start at the bottom of that list and work backwards. Those rules about policing plugs on TV, spawned in the wake of the quiz scandals a few years ago, got a real clobbering from Hope when he delivered his monolog. I counted five plugs for his latest movie, and I may have missed a couple.

Since the monolog, normally a highlight of these specials, was notably tame and flabby to begin with — there were jokes about the cha-cha updated to meet the challenge of "the-twist," and updated jokes about Bing Crosby, space monkeys and TV—I have a hunch that nothing mattered to Hope but those movie plugs. He stuck them into his routine with a crude disdain.

Although that part of the show was a disgrace, there were happier times in a sketch called "Hams in White." Bob, noting TV's preoccupation with materia medica this season, portrayed a doctor who was investigating unethical medical practices on TV. His first witness was Danny Thomas, in the role of a TV surgeon charged, among other things, with having converted with Abe Ribicoff, the secretary of health, education and welfare. The skit had clever lines, an easy lilt and was as professional and amusing a job as anything Hope has ever done on TV.

Guest stars, besides Thomas, were James Garner, Nancy Kwan and Barbara Britton. Miss Britton's role was relegated to commercials, but I list her because those spots involved some bits of business with Hope. Danny Thomas, who showed a Jack Bennyish trait in the medical spoof, was easily the most successful guest star of the night. Garner was wasted in a thing about the Hollywood fire and didn't have much of a chance to be funny in another sketch that satirized the film "The Hustler."

Our Freedom's 170 Years Old Today

One hundred seventy years ago this day, on Dec. 15, 1791, the last of the first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States was ratified. These first 10 amendments are known as the Bill of Rights. They were drawn to protect the freedom of the individual from possible tyranny by the federal government. And as we today celebrate Bill of Rights Day, it would be well to pause and consider their meaning, their use and their abuse.

The prime feature of our philosophy of government is that sovereignty rests with the individual citizens. The Bill of Rights which became effective 170 years ago today, just three years after the Constitution itself was adopted, was added because many of the 13 original states adopting the Constitution, did so with the understanding that a Bill of Rights restricting the power of the federal government, would be enacted.

The Founding Fathers held that the rights of the freedom of the individual are conferred by God upon His children and that these rights are inalienable. They believed that government existed and expressed the will of the sovereign people and that when governments fail in this they no longer have the right to the allegiance of the people.

One of our former presidents summed it up with: "The history of human freedom is the history of the limitations on the power of the government." The men who created our Constitution had suffered from old world tyranny. To them it was necessary to sever the shackles of the State. The result was the Constitution and following Bill of Rights, establishing a federal government of limited powers, a government to which was given those powers not reserved to the states or to the people.

The phrase, "We, the people," is a meaningful one. It is our bulwark against an all-powerful, centralized government in Washington. Our government belongs to the people and today, Bill of Rights Day, is a proper time to consider the meaning of this.

Under these first 10 amendments we are guaranteed the freedom of religion, of speech, of the press and the right to petition for redress; the right to keep and bear arms; the privacy of our home against use by the army or unreasonable search and seizure; the right to prevent being placed in jeopardy twice for the same offense or to be a witness against ourselves, the right of a speedy trial; trial by jury; protection against excessive bail; and, finally, that the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the States respectively or to the people.

These guarantees have made of the United States the great country it has become during the 170 years since the adoption of the Bill of Rights. These rights are the difference between freedom and tyranny.

The important thing is that if these freedoms guaranteed in the Bill of Rights are endangered today, it is not the fault of the Constitution. It is our own fault.

Today in Palm Springs under the auspices of a group of patriotic citizens, Bill of Rights Day is being observed. We are being reminded of the freedoms the Founding Fathers set aside for us, to assure for us the liberty so dear to them. They had left behind them the tyrannies of Europe, the misery and unhappiness of centuries of reactionary government and class hatred. America was to them the land of opportunity and they took a fierce pride in their country. They were not afraid to be called patriots.

They placed loyalty to their country foremost. It should be the same today for every American who recalls the sacrifices of those who planned well in making this a great nation.

With the tense world situation today and with the freedoms for which our Founders fought threatened, we should stop and give sober thought to what we enjoy. Lip service to the Constitution and Bill of Rights is not enough. We must not take our liberties for granted and thus risk losing them. We are free today to enjoy the rights granted us 170 years ago today. We will remain free to enjoy them only as long as we, as an individual, fight to maintain those rights.

Elections-at-Large at No Extra Cost

Approximately one out of six Palm Springs voters took the time to go to the polls Tuesday to express their opinion on councilmanic redistricting.

As predicted, the issue won easily. Two times previously the issue received a majority vote but because of the three-fourth stipulation, failed to carry. Tuesday, although only a simple majority was needed, it would have carried under the former law as it won by almost a four-fifth majority.

The vote was light even in the districts most affected. In none of the seven precincts, one to each district, did the vote reach even 20 per cent.

Some observers are inclined to believe that the lack of interest in a proposition that has been bandied about for nine years was due to a belief that council erred in not giving the voters the alternative of approving or rejecting elections-at-large, that many of the stay-at-homes in that way registered a protest.

Now that this special election is history and, as one man figured it, cost the city $4 for each vote cast, advocates of elections-at-large are studying the circulation of an initiative petition to force the council to call for a vote by the electorate on elections-at-large.

There will be a city election in April to name three members to the city council. The elections-at-large election would not have any effect on the make-up of the council until 1964 so another special election would not help. The proposition could be joined with the April councilmanic election and save the taxpayers the added cost.

Now is the time to start action to determine if Palm Springs voters favor elections-at-large.

Nobody Is Representing the Public

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Anybody skeptical about muzzles-on-the-military would become a true believer by trying, as has this reporter, to research the reasonable subject of Defense Department use of supplemental aircraft.

The subject is touchy because of the dreadful crash last November 8th at Richmond, Va., which took the lives of 74 Army recruits. Two official investigations are afoot. As I write this December 15th, has been tentatively set for a special House Armed Services committee to start with the Richmond crash and go back to look for Pentagon policy on the use of supplemental or, as they were once called, "non-scheduled" aircraft.

Definitely on Friday, December 15th, the two moguls of governmental regulation of aviation, Administrator Halaby of the Federal Aviation Agency and Chairman Boyd of the Civil Aeronautics Board, will hold a "conference" with the "presidents co-operating heads of all supplemental air carriers." The telegram sent to these men by Halaby and Boyd was ominous. It referred to "recent events," meaning the Imperial Airlines Richmond disaster involving military personnel, as well as the President Airline crash last September 9th at Shannon which killed 77 passengers and 6 crew members.

To date the Pentagon has received about 900 "squawks" (the word colloquially used to me in one of several interviews) about the deaths of these wet-behind-the-ears recruits who were handed tickets by a military transportation officer and sent aboard the doomed plane.

The newspapers, I was told, were responsible for many "squawks" because of misinformation that reached print. In particular, there was the misinformation (if that's what it was) to the effect that Secretary McNamara, in his horror over the Richmond crash, had at first ordered troops moved by rail.

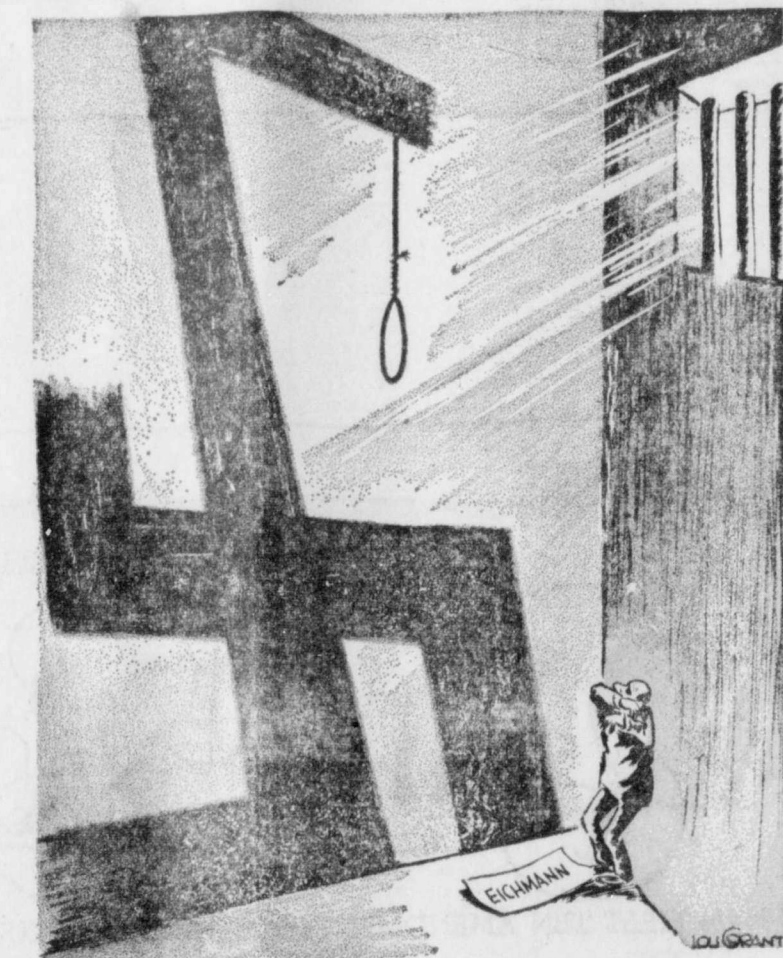

Where did the complaints come from on this item? From bereaved families? From indignant citizens? From informed air-minded critics (for example, former Army Secretary Brucker said McNamara was putting the boys into "rattletrap" planes) who knew how tragically somebody had blundered?

No, sirree. These particular squawks came from the commercial airlines! They wanted their business as usual! Secretary McNamara complied by announcing that his Department would continue to contract commercial airlines for the troops.

McNamara is understandably anxious that nobody speak out of turn about the policy which preceded this November crash, but which has been materially changed since then. One man, very hard to find, and hard to crack for information when he is found, has been designated to speak for the Pentagon on the subject. Among the questions which I asked were queries about lost engines, turnbacks, near accidents and other close squeaks which have occurred to troop-carrying planes.

As a former Air Force type, I know that all crews are debriefed after every flight, and these data assembled. The Pentagon office which ought to have this information, and ought not to withhold it from a reporter, is the Military Traffic Management Agency, headed by Major General I. Sewell Morris, whose title is Executive Director. This office, very cordial until my questions got specific, went behind the muzzle when I asked for anything more than the time of day.

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

Study, figure,
Toil and trouble,
For now they've got
The Daily Double.

Week after next is double Santa Week. On Monday, the 25th, it's Santa Claus. On Tuesday, the 26th, it's Santa Anita. I hope both are kind to me.

SOMETHING NEW has been added at the Arcadia track this year. They've instituted the daily double at the request of those incurable optimists who would speed up the process of improving the Breed. (Put that in capitals, please, Mr. Operator. It takes capital to improve the Breed.)

Santa Anita, the first horse oval in the state after pari-mutuel wagering became law-abiding about 30 years ago, held out against the daily double plan for many years.

THE TOP BRASS at Santa Anita were firm in the belief that when you chunked two bucks into the maw of the tote machine hoping to achieve a monetary gain, you weren't gambling. Just helping the stock farms to produce better horses. It was once claimed that these better horses were for the cavalry. Since this branch of the service is now mostly mechanized, the better horses are for faster races.

And they thought that the daily double in which a guy, who couldn't pick two winners all day, tried for two in a row, was only gambling.

THIS BUSINESS of Improving the Breed is Big Business in California. As of today, there are 475 farms in the state devoted to raising thoroughbreds. That's a gain of 175 in two years, indicating your $2 did some good even if none came home to roost accompanied by more of the same.

Riverside County is second in the state in number of horse farms. Los Angeles county has 96. Turn that upside down and you have 69, the number of equine establishments turning out better and faster horses in this county.

ANYWAY, the ordinary or lay better, the one who used to go to the pari-mutuel track with his $16.60 figuring that at two bucks a heat, he could lose them all and still have enough left for a hamburger and a bottle of brew, now has to take $18.60 with him.

There's that new daily double. That calls for an investment of $4 before the first gate is sprung. And who knows, it may have to be more. Inflation might hit the hamburgers and the suds.

THAT REMINDS ME that, while the cost of almost everything else has gone up, you can still buy a pari-mutuel ticket for $2 just like in 1935. Of course, what you get back, if any, won't buy as much. A hot dog that cost a dime then sets you back two-bits now. But don't look a gift horse in the mouth. Buy your hot dog cheerfully and don't spoil your appetite wondering what they do with horses that can't run so fast any more.

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: For 18 years my husband, our children and I have gone to his parents for Christmas dinner. He comes from a large clannish family, and all his sisters and brothers and their children attend this dinner. The whole gang totals 44, so you can picture the commotion. This year I want to have my own Christmas dinner with just my husband, our three children and myself. When I suggested it, my husband blew his top. He said his parents were getting on in years, and after they are gone we can have our own Christmas dinner, but while they are living we should go to their home. Abby, I do not care to wait until his parents die to enjoy a quiet Christmas dinner at home. What is your suggestion? —HATES MOB SCENES

DEAR HATES: Button your lip, put cotton in your ears and go! If you yearn for a quiet Christmas dinner at home, make your own on Christmas Eve.

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and need your help desperately. I like this one very much but I call him up, write to him and have all my friends ask him what he thinks of me but it isn't doing much good. I am fairly cute. Could you please give me some advice on how to get this certain boy without being a pest? Thanks loads. —LOSING OUT

DEAR LOSING: No wonder you are "losing out." No boy wants to be stalked like an animal. Leave him completely alone. And in the future, if you want a boy to become interested in you, let "him" do the chasing.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 14-year-old son, who still wets the bed. I have talked to him, but it does no good. I have taken him to our family doctor, and he says there is nothing wrong with the boy. I've threatened to use diapers, and in a couple of days

I just might. Do you think that would stop him? But even if it doesn't, would it be a good way to keep the bed in good condition? —FRANTIC

DEAR FRANTIC: No 14-year-old boy wets the bed because he "wants to." It is unpleasant for you, but it's far more unpleasant for the boy. When the doctor said "there is nothing wrong with him," he meant "physically." Bed wetting is frequently an emotional problem. Don't shame, scold or lecture your son. Wash the sheet, say nothing, and eventually your problem will disappear.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "M. M. K.": You are mistaken. The only all white dress at the wedding should be the bride's. It's "her" day. Wear something else.

Remember When

December 15, 1951
Justis Craemer of the state public utilities commission said that a hearing would be held here soon on complaints against assertedly poor telephone service in the desert area.

December 15, 1941
Raymond M. Sorum, councilman, John D. Lange, city manager and Lyle Sanard, police chief, issued a joint statement outlining procedure on blackouts in the event of raid warnings.

December 15, 1931
C. L. Ellis, Mission Indian agent, said that the Agua Caliente Indians have practically completed building of a bath house over the hot springs which gave the tribe and the community their names.

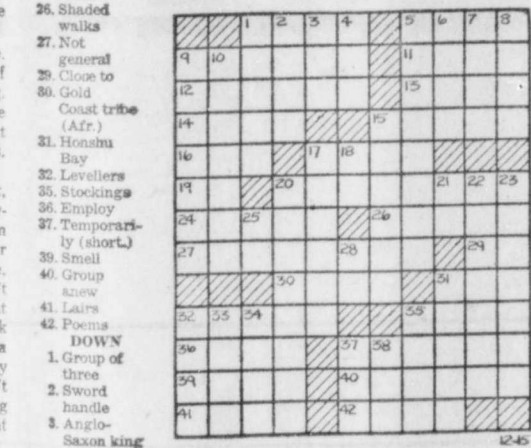

Two polo clubs were being organized here, one at Norman's Stables and the other at Smoke Tree Ranch.

British Have Trouble With Post Office

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International
LONDON (UPI)—Let us consider in sadness and sympathy the ordeal of her majesty's post office, which operates all the telephones in Britain and will continue to do so unless the personnel have a mass nervous breakdown.

The bald facts are that robots are filibustering each other over the telephone, dogs are putting in emergency maternity calls and adults in the city of Hull have difficulty communicating with one another because kids have the phones tied up listening to bedtime stories.

Slow and easy now and one at a time. Outside London there is an automatic device called Robot George. His duty is to signal when there is a power failure. The power failed and, true to his trust, George dialed zero and said: "There is a power failure, please send repair men."

The human beings in her majesty's post office had goofed by not advising Robot George that the zero had been changed to 100.

But Robot Charlie in London picked up the ball and advised Robot George: "You no longer dial zero for operator. Please replace your receiver and dial 100."

"There is a power failure," repeated Robot George.

"You no longer dial zero for operator," repeated Robot Charlie.

"How long did they filibuster each other?" Ted Dollery of her majesty's post office was asked. "At least three hours," he replied. "They were sort of like statesmen at a peace conference, if you know what I mean. Lots of talk but no action."

Bess, an Alsatian, was in a garage near Huddersfield when she felt the pangs of approaching motherhood. She went over to a corner of the garage and knocked the receiver off the phone. A telephone operator dialed 999, the emergency number, and told police she had heard what sounded like children crying. Police located Dennis Hellawell, owner of the garage, and went to the scene.

Bess already had given birth to two puppies and later there were four more.

"Smart dog," said Hellawell. "The puppies weren't due for several days yet."

There's Comedy, Violence On the State of Texas Map

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Take a long look at a map of Texas and you'll find music, poetry, drama, violence and comedy.

There are town names like Pipecreek and Twitty. Also Splendora, Jolly, Blessing and Bonanza.

You could even make out a grocery list. There's Okra in Eastland County, Soda in Polk County, Flour Bluff near Corpus Christi, Orange Grove in Jim Wells County, Pearland near Houston and Noodle in Jones County. There is even a Salmon in Anderson County.

There are two Midways and one Halfway in Texas.

You can also find a Dime Box, Muleshoe, Dobbin, Birthright, Peerless, and Bug Tussle.

Enough names for dozens of girl and boy babies, ranging from Dolores to Idalou and from Fred to Wilmer. There's even a Nursery to put them in.

After a little searching you can make complete sentences with names only:

"Goodnight, Turkey Cost Moran Swan," or "Dimmitt, Melvin, Kent Charlie Cut and Shoot?"

Northern U. S. Has Biggest Alcoholics Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's highest rate of alcoholism is found in the northernmost tier of states running from Maine to North Dakota.

But remarkably little is known about the drinking habits of the American people.

These two conclusions were offered Monday by Dr. Milton Silverman, director of medical research for California's Wine Advisory Board, at a news conference on the medical uses of wine.

Silverman said wine had proved effective in the treatment of certain types of diabetes; for the post-surgical treatment of patients who have had stomach operations; for obesity, loss of appetite, and, in a very special way, the treatment of chronic alcoholics.

But Silverman, a biochemist and pharmacologist, said wine's most important contribution was as a "type of psychological vaccination against the disease of alcoholism."

The scientist said the rate of alcoholism was lowest in countries and racial groups where wine was taken with the meal and considered as normal as a piece of bread.
